JAILED ON 'DEAD' MAN KIDNAPING CHARGE

Divorced Wife of R. H. Craig Accused of Attempt to Steal Own Son

Wife of Piedmont's Mayor Says Former Daughter-in-Law Attacked Her

MIRIAM CRANE CRAIG, divorced wife of Roy Hugh Craig, son of Mayor Hugh Craig of Piedmont, is in the Alameda county jail charged with having attempted to kidnap her 5-year-old son, Gordon Hugh Craig, from the home of his grandmother in Piedmont last evening.

Mrs. Craig's arrest follows the award by the courts of Georgia and the United States Circuit Court in Tennessee of the custody of the boy to his father, Roy Hugh Craig, after the granting of a divorce decree to the father.

The same courts had named Mrs. Hugh Craig, the grandmother, guardian of the boy.

GIVEN WARNING.

The young mother's attempt to gain possession of the child was foiled by information given to the boy's grandmother early in the day.

Mrs. Hugh Craig informed the Piedmont marshal's office and Deputy Marshal Foster, was detailed to the Craig home, 56 Craig avenue.

Even the nearby presence of the officer failed to prevent the younger Mrs. Craig from gaining entrance to the house. The grandmother was alone at the time with the boy Gordon.

THREATENS TO PROSECUTE.

"My son's divorced wife attacked me as soon as she entered the house," said Mrs. Hugh Craig last night. "All the time she was trying to get her hands on the boy and take him away." Mr. Foster arrived in time to prevent her from carrying out her attempt. She has been trying to get the boy for several weeks past, and during the last few days has been particularly persistent. We intend to prosecute the woman."

At the County Jail the mother refused to discuss her predicament. She called into consultation an attorney and a friend.

MARRIED SIX YEARS AGO.

The woman's mother is said to be a wealthy land owner in Santa Clara county. Roy Craig and Miriam Crane were married six years ago. The divorce was granted on the grounds of incompatibility. Roy Hugh Craig is department manager of the Galena Signal Oil Company, in Nashville, Tenn.

'DEAD' MAN HIDES IN CANADA

Joseph H. Jordan, Supposed to Have Drowned, Flees From America

Lawyer Sets Stage for His Own 'Death' and Then Disappears

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—In an alpine bungalow in the Canadian Rockies, Joseph H. Jordan, the fugitive attorney and clubman, who was supposed to have been drowned in the bay near Sausalito on July 26 of last year, is living, according to information received by the police. He is emulating the dual career of a weird character created by the late Count Tolstoy in his famous play, "The Man Who Was Dead."

Like the Tolstoy character, Jordan made such careful plans for his disappearance that it was generally believed that his body went to the bottom of the bay and relatives, friends and creditors mourned him as dead. He carried the plot out so well that for more than a year he concealed himself in his mountain bungalow, while two indictments remained untouched in a dusty pigeon-hole in the grand jury room.

FORGERY DISCOVERED.

The discovery that he was alive was made today through a complaint made by Miss Anna Featherstone, secretary to Police Commissioner James Wood, that a notary public had forged the notarial seal and acknowledged a document by which Miss Featherstone supposed she was getting a home when others claimed title to the property. Miss Featherstone investigated and discovered the forgery. She placed the dead in the hands of Theodore Kyte, the handwriting expert, and he pronounced the notarial acknowledgement a rank forgery. The signature of Henry B. Lister, a well-known lawyer and notary, had not only been forged, but the official seal was as well a counterfeit.

Investigation was immediately made by the police and they learned through secret channels that Jordan was in Canada.

SEVERAL OTHER FRAUDS.

At least six other forgeries were committed by Jordan before he was "drowned." He circulated a number of bogus stock certificates and duped un-

Manager of N. Y. Giants Will Enter Vaudeville

John J. McGraw to Draw Down Salary of $3000 a Week.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, will enter vaudeville at the close of the world's series at a salary said to be $3000 a week. This announcement was made tonight by a vaudeville manager close to the United booking agency, which has drawn up a contract which will be signed by McGraw and E. F. Albee as soon as the latter returns from Hot Springs, Va. It is understood that the United agency has made a proposal to McGraw whether he shall appear ten or twenty weeks.

"Don't worry, Jack," Becker told me. "The only thing to do now is to lay low till it blows over."

Rose says he hid at Harry's Pollock's home with Sam Scheppis. Rose telephoned Becker and was told not to worry, but to stay where he was.

that he should sign an affidavit saying that he (Rose) had advanced the $1600 which Becker loaned Rosenthal.

"I told Becker it was a poor thing to do, now that the man was murdered. I told him to send his lawyer, John W. Hart, with the affidavit. I signed it."

BECKER PERIODICAL.

Before Rose was half through with his story drops of perspiration were standing on the brow of the accused police Lieutenant. He did not once take his eyes off witness Mrs. Becker, who sat near her husband, looked steadily at the floor.

Attorney McIntyre, Becker's counsel, volleyed objection after objection until he was reprimanded by Justice Goff. Twice he demanded that court be adjourned on the ground that it was a long holiday and each time that he was adjourned the court was adjourned.

"Bridges," Webber gave me $1000

"DON'T TALK," BECKER'S ORDER.

"When was this done?" asked Mr. Moore.

"On Tuesday afternoon after the shooting," the shooting was early Tuesday morning."

"What did you say to Lefty Louis?"

"I told him, 'There's $1000 for

TRAIN STOP IS A LOCAL INVENTION

Oaklander Perfects Device for Prevention of Railroad Accidents.

J. E. Ramey, an Oakland man is the inventor of an automatic train stop and cab signal for which he claims simplicity and absolute efficiency in the prevention of railroad accidents. Stripped of technical terms, its plan of operation is somewhat as follows:

In the center of the track a short rail is placed at any point where it is desirable to signal an engineer. This rail is electrically charged and is connected by wire with batteries who operate a semaphore, and connects with a system of levers, indicators and emergency valves placed in the engine itself. When electric charge is connected with center rail, the train will pass over it without any signal to stop, but if it is desired to stop the train the rail is not charged and will open the circuit, the battery on the engine and give necessary warning to the engineer.

It is impossible for the engineer to disregard this signal as an automatic emergency valve blows a whistle which the engineer must stop with an electric bell too. The device is also equipped with automatic indicators showing first whether the signal to stop had been properly given and second whether or not engineer has noticed and made use of the emergency valve.

If it is claimed for this invention that it will absolutely eliminate railroad accidents, as it provides not only for stoppage of train automatically, but also against negligence on the part of engineer.

SUGAR BEET HARVEST PROMISES TO BE EARLY

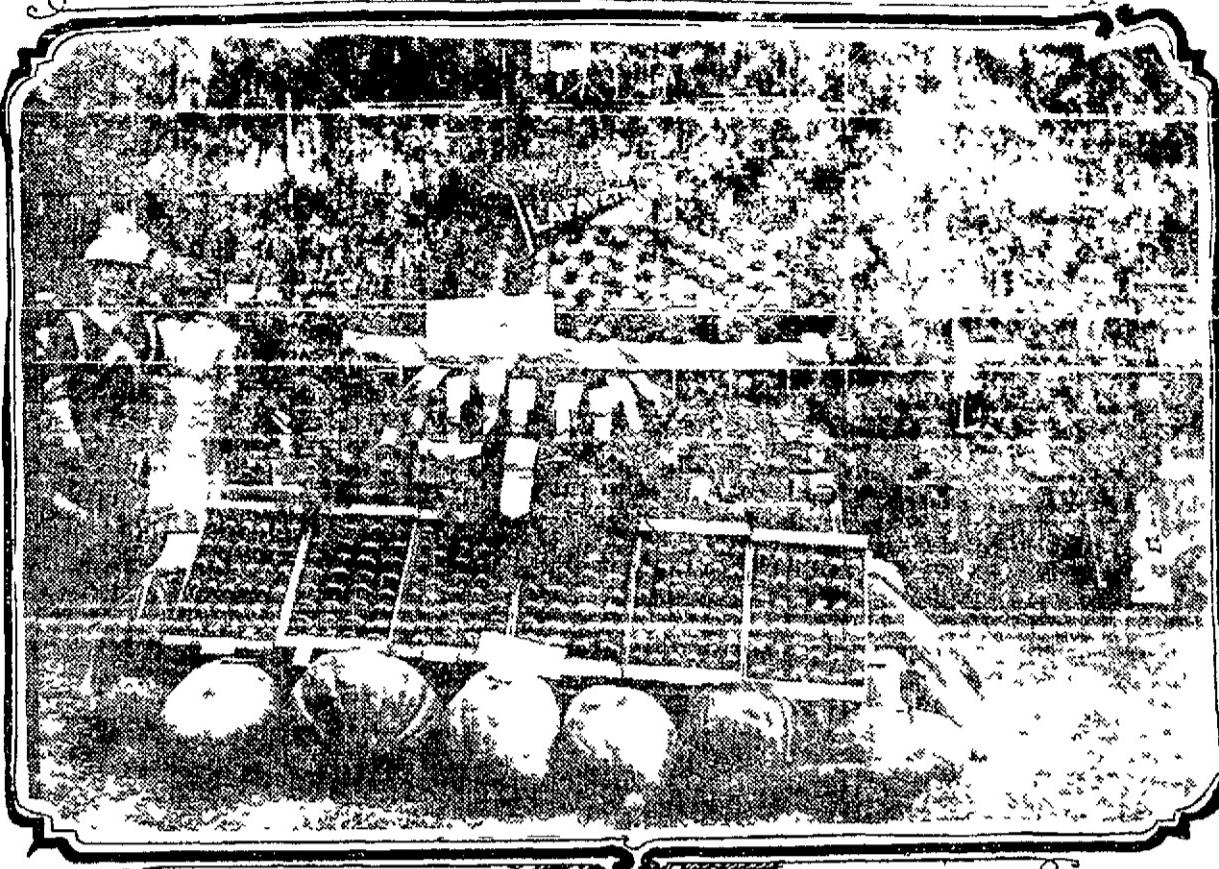

WOODLAND, Oct. 12.—The sugar beet harvest is making rapid progress and promises to be over very much earlier this season than ever before. The harvest began earlier than usual and the factories, owing to short crops elsewhere, were able to handle the Yolo County output with unusual promptness. The Alameda Sugar Co. is operating its engines and plows day and night, and a large day force is gathering and preparing the beets for shipment. The shipments are running from 18 to 20 carloads a day.

NOTABLE DISPLAY OF PRODUCTS AT CONCORD WALNUT SHOW

RICHMOND DELEGATION VISITS BIG CONTRA COSTA FESTIVAL

SOME OF THE AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITS SHOWN AT THE WALNUT FESTIVAL AT CONCORD, CONTRA COSTA COUNTY, DEMONSTRATING FERTILITY OF THE SOIL.

CONCORD, Oct. 12.—The culmination of what is considered one of the greatest collections of products ever shown at any of the smaller county fairs of this section, came today when residents of all parts of Contra Costa county flocked to this city to witness the final day exercises of the first annual walnut festival.

A special train arrived from Richmond early in the forenoon, bringing over 500 boosters. The Concord band and a delegation of city officials met the party at the depot and escorted them to the fair grounds in the city plaza. Mayor Owens of Richmond, who came in yesterday, was one of the party. Cars on the Oakland and Antioch Railway, running half-hour intervals, brought hundreds of visitors from the far end of Contra Costa county and automobile and carriages contributed their quota.

The variety and excellence of the products shown is being commented on by many men prominent in agricultural circles in various portions of California R. D. Maplesden of Oakland, State Horticultural Commissioner, many others are strong in their praise of the display.

FINE HORSES, FINER CHILDREN.

Fine horses and healthy children from all parts of the country divided honors at today's session. The equine beauties had their parade in the forenoon when nearly a hundred thoroughbreds of various grades and species passed before Queen Allene and a committee of judges. Red was the most popular color worn for ribbons, but blue and even yellow were eagerly sought by owners who could not secure the blue trophies.

In the afternoon school children and their teachers paraded along the main streets, and engaged in an interesting series of athletic competitions. In the evening the farewell reception to the queen closed the festa.

FINE POULTRY SHOW.

The Concord walnut festival will be remembered as being the medium for bringing together the most varyed and one of the best shows of high class poultry which has ever been held outside of Oakland. Secretary G. H. Hinds of the Alameda Poultry Association, who is here as judge, claims the exhibit cannot be beaten anywhere. Profuse in his compliments of the stock of the few breeders in the count, he is strong in his commendation of the wisdom of the directors in throwing the gates of the show open to birds from outside this side of the county in order to allow the residents here to view the fine birds for stockbreeding purposes.

"I will long remember this show as the on which beat at the Sacramento State Fair," said Hinds. "The class is here that was not found there, too," he added.

"AD" MEN PASS HAT FOR INJURED NEWSY

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 12.—Four hundred advertising men of Spokane are making weekly contributions of ten cents each to care for Jimmie O'Neal, a 12-year-old lad who lost a leg in an accident during an automobile parade given by the Spokane Ad club. Jimmie was an invited guest in a place of honor at the rear of one machine following got beyond control for a few moments and bumped into the oil immediately ahead, breaking his leg so severely it had to be amputated. Fearing the driver might be blamed for the accident, Jimmie at first refused to tell the police how the accident happened.

As soon as news of the misfortune of the boy was brought to the attention of President R. E. Bigelow of the Ad club, a special meeting was called and it was determined that every member should pay 10 cents weekly to the support of the boy and his widowed mother. That is why someone passes a hat around at every meeting of the club.

IVORY POACHER
ROGERS WOUNDED
BY ALASKAN PARTNER

AN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—They were chatting in the reading room of the San Francisco Alaska Club last night about Rogers of Oakland, the alleged ivory poacher, who was killed in Africa recently and whose death is now a subject of inquiry by the State Department. In the late nineties Rogers had a mining claim near Dawson in partnership with a man named Newton H. Soggs of Buffalo. Those talking knew both men well.

"I heard the other day that Soggs lately committed suicide back in his Eastern home, where he had re-entered the jewelry business," remarked one of the group.

"Remember when Soggs shot three holes through Rogers with a revolver?" said another.

Rogers, according to the tale, had a few days before the shooting badly whipped Soggs over a business dispute and said he would repeat the dose again if he did not get out of the country. Soggs was a little fellow, nervous, peculiar and yet well liked. Rogers was a big, powerful man. Soggs soon ran across his partner again. Seeing him approach, Soggs whipped out his gun, closed his eyes in fright, and, with shaking hand and face turned away, fired. Those near by laughed at the queer picture the scared little fellow presented. Three out of five shots ploughed through Rogers' body and he fell within a foot of his adversary with a curse on his lips. Soggs was jailed by Zachariah Woods, chief of the Canadian Mounted Police and a former American and Confederate soldier who would not be reconstructed after the war. Rogers recovered, and, with others, worked hard to secure the release of his partner on the ground that he had simply shot in self defense. Both men were the best of friends ever afterwards. Selling their claim, Rogers left for California and those in the club group that were talking never heard of him again until his tragic death in the African jungle. Soggs' suicide is said to have been due to grief caused by the death of his wife.

Big Reward for De Sabla Jewels

The long man-hunt for the person, or persons, who stole Mrs. E. J. de Sabla's diamonds from her room in the Palace Hotel has ended in failure. Their recovery is now being sought by cold business tactics. This is the meaning of the increase of the reward for their production from five to ten thousand dollars, with a promise that the one returning them will not be molested or asked any questions. The market value of the stolen jewelry pieces is said to be not more than $35,000. Because of associations, the owner prizes them much more than such a sum and is very anxious for their recovery. As a business proposition, Mr. de Sabla can pay the big reward and then be ahead $25,000. Templeton Crocker on one occasion paid $2000 for the return through unknown New York parties of the $5000 black pearl he had inherited from his father. It was picked from his scarf at the Third and Townsend street depot here some years ago. Many similar cases could be cited. So what De Sabla and his detectives are doing is nothing new. They sincerely hope, as in past instances, that their offer will produce the diamonds. As the story runs, three different clever crooks were suspected of the burglary and have been followed all over the country. Nothing tangible against them could be dug up. One is known to have been on the coast about the time of the robbery. Not even that much has been found out about the movements of the other two. The presumption is that the stolen goods were disposed of by the robber through an Eastern "fence." If recovered, it is taken for granted they will come from such a source's agent. Many prominent jewelry houses all over the country have tried for a long time in vain to find some trace of the sale of this jewelry, so thorough has been the search for it.

Why Lincoln Did Not Drink

Rear Admiral Lucien Young, who died in New York a few days ago, had many warm friends in this city. One of them was present at the time the legislature of Kentucky, his native State, made him an honorary member for life and presented him with a sword. Young was an authority on the lives of the parents of Abraham Lincoln and their early married life in the Blue Grass State and often talked entertainingly on the subject. He also had been a close student of the life of the martyred President and had a fund of incidents and stories about him at his ready command in conversation. One of his stories had to do with an occasion when Lincoln was asked to take a drink by a politician who was meeting him for the first time, and he declined on the ground that he never drank.

"How does that happen?" inquired the politician in surprise. "Weren't you born in Kentucky?"

"Yes," replied Lincoln, with the well-known twinkle in his sad, gray eyes, "but you see, my friend, I never acquired the habit because those other Kentuckians always got the jug before I did. You know I left Kentucky when I was quite young."

Shaw's Queer Sartorial Tastes

of the plays of that brilliant but erratic Britisher, George Bernard Shaw, may think this story of his utter disregard of the conventions of dress at the theater worth while. It is to be found in Shaw's biography by Dr. Archibald Henderson, just issued and copies of which are now at hand. I ran across the biography in one of the libraries. The tale in question runs in this manner:

"It must be admitted that Shaw has been associated throughout his life with queer sartorial tastes. The notorious velvet jacket which he wore during the days of his activity as a critic of the drama furnished the casus belli in Shaw's war with the theater managers. Shaw refused point blank to obey the iron-clad regulation that occupants of stalls must wear evening clothes. The irrepressible conflict was precipitated one night when Shaw was stopped at the door of the theater by the attendant.

"What do you object to?" asked Shaw, "the velvet jacket?"

The attendant nodded assent.

"Very well," exclaimed Shaw, no whit abashed, "I will remove it." And the next instant he was striding up the aisle in his shirt sleeves.

"Here, that won't do," shouted the attendant in great alarm, hurrying after Shaw and stopping him with great difficulty.

"Won't do!" cried Shaw, with fine assumption of indignation. "Do you think I am going to take off any more?"

"And with that he promptly redonned his velvet jacket, and, turning on his heel, left the house. Shaw finally won the battle and enjoyed his triumph in face of the objection of managers and the indignation of the fashionable and wealthy theater-goers."

Visit of Ohio Governor

Governor Judson Harmon's visit to the city to select a location for the Ohio building on the Panama-Pacific Exposition site has been a noteworthy event this week. States of the importance of Ohio and New York are going to do big things at the world fair and their influence will materially help the exposition along in other Eastern localities. The legislatures of thirty States are to meet this winter. All of them will consider and unquestionably make exposition appropriations for state buildings and exhibits. President C. C. Moore and his associates have influences at work on all of these legislative bodies with that object in view. Harmon's visit is timely for this reason, because the press dispatches giving an account of his movements out here make additional publicity for the fair all over the land. For the same reason much good will follow the visit of Norman C. Mack and the New York fair delegation in November. After the latter, Governor Marshall of Indiana will in all likelihood come. The Indiana local colony is bending every effort to attain that end.

The exposition directors gave Governor Harmon a fine welcome. They found him a big man, big physically, big mentally. There are no wire edges to Harmon and no frills. Level-headed, the Governor is absolutely free from hysteria of any kind or brand. He appreciates the importance of the fair, the suitableness of the location as well as its appropriateness in this city, wants Ohio creditably represented and says so. Personally he impresses you with one overbearing fact, and that is his Americanism. His sincerity, his name and his face match—they are all strong. So Ohio, the mother of Presidents in succession to Virginia, is going to be at the 1915 exposition in a large way through his activity and zeal and will help bring other states to a proper realization of their duty.

Big Firm May Dissolve

Kuhn Loeb & Co., New York bankers, being in a large way the financial power behind the Southern Pacific Company, rumors about dissensions among its members, which may lead to the firm's disruption, are of much local interest.

Jacob H. Schiff is the real head of the house. Otto H. Kahn is another strong member. Schiff's son, Mortimer L., and Paul and Felix Wanberg make up the other members. Friction is said to have developed in the firm as the result of the wish and intention of the senior Schiff to install his son as the head man. This proposition, according to the gossip local bankers have heard from the East, does not meet with favor from the Wanbergs and Otto H. Kahn, and particularly the latter, who has been a close second to the elder Schiff in influence and ability. Then it was that Mr. Schiff decided to retire from active business, and insisted that, as his wishes in the choice of a successor were not to be carried out, the firm should pass out of existence. After numerous conferences this conclusion was, it is rumored, arrived at and as soon as the company can wind up its affairs, which will take some time, it will pass into history.

Kahn was in San Francisco about a year ago and expressed his readiness to take stock in an opera house here if such a movement took shape. His first wife and his present one were sisters by the name of Wolfe. Both had large fortunes. He is said to be the real support of the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. There are reports that he has bought a mansion in London and may live there a great part of his time as a result of the row. Kuhn and Loeb, the founders of the firm and now dead, originally were Cincinnati men. Jacob H. Schiff, whom many think next to Morgan as a financier, married a daughter of Loeb; so did Paul Wanberg. Felix, his brother, is married to a daughter of Schiff. It was this firm's backing which enabled Harriman to climb into the control of the Union and Southern Pacific properties. Up to that time the banking house of Speyer & Co. of New York and London had been behind Huntington and the Southern Pacific. The ousting of the Speyers as the latter road's bankers is what lost Charles M. Hays, Titanic victim, the presidency in succession to Huntington. He had a contract for three years at $50,000 a year. Serving one year, Kuhn, Loeb & Co. paid him $100,000 and ended his contract.

Spend Less Than Your Income

Always spend less than your income, no matter what it is, if you would gain a competence, is the advice given to the young man by I. W. Hellman, the Nestor of California bankers and probably one of the two richest men in the State, who has just celebrated his seventieth birthday. The elderly Henry Siegel of Siegel, Cooper & Co. of New York, Chicago and Boston, the firm which started the first department store in the United States, made a similar observation while here recently as a guest at the St. Francis. Both men admit such advice is as old as the hills, but, like the ten commandments, is sound to the core. It needs frequent repetition because so many young men are spendthrifts and never think of it until it is too late. Both of these men, working in their youth for $25 a month and less, found it very hard to accumulate their first thousand dollars. Once that rung of the financial ladder was reached, they made small investments. That was, they say, the laying of a foundation in concrete for their present fortunes. One of them bought a piece of property for $100 in those days that he could now lease at a rental of $25,000 a year. He refused the offer because he intends to build on it himself and make a better income. The other purchased out of his first thousand a piece of land for $450 that he was offered within the year $150,000 for but would not sell.

Both men are in good health and their physicians advise them not to retire but to limit their work according to their strength. The medicos think this is the best way to conserve their health and strength in the years after 70. One of these men told the writer that the president of a large life insurance company has informed him that on investigation over a period of years he found that the average life of those insured in the company after they had retired from business was only two years and eight months. This president thinks this short average is due in part at least to the sudden breaking off of a lifelong habit that is involved in a retirement from business.

Huntington Dislikes San Francisco

It can be stated as a fact that Henry E. Huntington is not to buy into the Smith United Properties Company and has never had, or sought, a conference on the subject. Nor is R. G. Hanford to dispose of his interest with Smith and Tevis. Some time ago Mr. Huntington paid a visit to Berkeley, but it was simply a social call on the Green family of that city, one of who members is the wife of his son, Howard. From that little trip has arisen all the rumors of a big deal by Huntington with Smith and his two principal partners. The Smith interests have never contemplated any support from the Huntington wealth. On the other hand, it is known that Huntington does not want any Northern California investments. He had a lot of them at one time but disposed of them. He frankly dislikes San Francisco and is averse to visiting this section often or having any more business interests in this region that would make his presence necessary now and then. He has large affairs in the south and others in the East and is content with them and what they mean to him in large financial results. His uncle's widow, Mrs. Arabella Huntington, who is associated with him in some large concerns, entertains the same dislike that he does to this city and its surroundings. They can afford to entertain this dislike. But, of course, they are not foolish enough to think this region cannot get along without them. So let it go at that.

Custer Did Not Disobey Orders

Brigadier-General C. A. Woodruff, U. S. A., retired, in his talk before the Commonwealth Club last Saturday on the Sioux Indian campaign of 1876 and the massacre of General Custer, dispelled some loose ideas on that subject that the public has all along more or less entertained. Woodruff is an able man and has made a study of the subject, so what he says is worth while. Custer, according to Woodruff, did not violate orders. General Terry gave him orders, but wound up by saying:

"These are my views as to your best method of procedure. You are at liberty to change them as emergencies arise."

These orders, therefore, gave him the right to take the initiative he did as he proceeded through the Little Big Horn country. Custer assigned Reno with part of his command to do a certain thing. Woodruff says Reno got rattled and demoralized shortly after being sent on his mission. His manner indicated more than his words that he did not think much of Reno. Both men were woefully ignorant of the number of Indians gathering around them. Even Gibbons' command, with which Woodruff was with as a young officer, had no idea of the hordes of Indians that were gathering to the number of 7000. He tore to tatters the heroics that some white people have sought to cloth Sitting Bull in. In his opinion Sitting Bull was a rank coward. He spoke well of Crazy Horse and Lame Deer. Evidently, however, Black Hawk and Geronimo, the Apache of Arizona, were the greatest of the Indian warriors of the last sixty years of the last century in the West. Custer was overpowered and killed by mere force of numbers and not by the brilliant strategy of any Indian genius.

Burlesque of Midsummer Jinks

The burlesque of "The Atonement of Pan," the midsummer jinks play of the Bohemian Club last August, at the club's rooms last Saturday night must have been a great treat from all accounts. These burlesques of the midsummer jinks plays for an October Saturday night, following a dinner to club members only, have become an established feature now. The men who impersonated Henry Hadley and Joseph D. Redding, the authors of the play, are described as having been the limit in fun. The Hadley impersonator going through the movements of rehearsing the players at the grove caused oceans of tears from laughter. There was a mock board of directors before which the impersonator of Joe Redding argued against repeating the play in the grove for the benefit of members and their wives.

"Impossible to think of it for a moment," pleaded this pseudo Joe. "Think of the danger of the play getting into the newspapers. Think of such a dire calamity. And then, gentlemen, should it get into the papers, think what a reflection it will be on my reputation as a lawyer."

In the general chat of the dinner incidents of those delightful nights in the grove were recalled. Here and there an interesting light was thrown on the hidden talent of this or that member. About half an hour after midnight on one occasion several members heard classical music on a piano off in one dark corner under a big friendly tree. Steathily approaching the place, their interest was keyed up on hearing played with much skill and expression a charming selection from Chopin. Tip-toeing nearer, they were surprised and delighted to find the man at the piano was none other than William Hood, the brilliant chief engineer of the Southern Pacific and one of the best amateurs in the country in colored photography. Thinking himself alone, Hood was playing with rare abandon. His secret auditors had a fine treat and then slid away without disturbing him.

Mention was also made of the modest, taciturn Dr. W. A. Bryant, who usually carries with him a small box of water-color paints and can sketch quickly and with true eye and proportion any little scene or incident. He brought away from the grove a number of charming pictures for his friends. Mention was also made of the Britisher, an invited guest at the grove, who was astonished that some women were participants in a play under such conditions. Could there have ever been a finer compliment paid to the members who took the female parts?

Welcome for Anna Howard Shaw

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw has had this week a great welcome from the local suffragists. She is the same keen, virile person, who, many years ago, with Susan B. Anthony, fought for the suffrage in this State and lost. It is said to be the delightful and delighting Anna Shaw's ambition to one of these days break into the United States Senate. She is a mighty big factor with the American suffragettes in these days and they would all like to see her attain that ambition. She is their ablest leader today and has become so by sheer ability and a winsome personality. Women in the cause, like Mrs. O. H. Belmont, are handicapped by their wealth and social status and sometimes by lack of tact. Only the other day, for instance, Mrs. Belmont is credited with having shocked New York by remarking straight from the shoulder:

"Damn public opinion."

As the story runs, her friends in the cause hastened to explain that she did not mean "the public be damned," as once credited to William H. Vanderbilt. Rather it was a hot rejoinder under great provocation directed at the attitude of a lot of people who are trying to belittle militant suffragists and insist that Mrs. Pankhurst's followers have alleviated public opinion from the cause.

The only Anna Shaw finds a sharp, glistening rapier far better than the Belmont sword with which to parry adverse thrusts at the woman voter. It is said she once got into an argument with several members of Congress about the suffrage when one of them made bold to caustically remark:

"Woman suffrage? Fiddlesticks! What has a woman ever done or produced. You all do a lot of talking and boasting, but tell me what has a woman produced."

"Well," replied Dr. Shaw, "the women have produced a lot of men, but that is an achievement that I am loth to mention with too great a degree of pride."

Will Gertrude Smoke Again?

Gertrude Atherton's promise to the women of the southland never to smoke again in public in this country is the second startling surprise she has brought out, to use the language of the theatrical press agent, within the past four or five months.

The other one was when she consented to become the lion, or lioness, as you please, at a South Shore Country Club dinner in Chicago after all she had said of that berg, including her famous obiter dictum. "I would rather go to Hades than live in Chicago." On that occasion she smoked in public, creating a big sensation among her sisters in attendance. The talk it caused led her to remark:

"I believe women should have a right to smoke. I think as long as a woman does not infringe upon the pleasures of others she should be allowed to have her pleasure. I enjoy a cigarette after dinner as much as a man does. Why not?"

Mrs. Atherton has repeatedly smoked in public

H. E. HUNTINGTON

in this city, New York and elsewhere in this country. But an effort has always been made by other women present to try and make her feel, not by what was directly said, but by overheard whispers of "did you ever?" that she was doing wrong in this country in spite of what might be accepted in Europe. She has always turned a deaf ear to these protests by insisting that the objections were born of "provincialism."

Has she finally tired of all the notoriety of these provincial protests so as to be willing to give up smoking in public in this country?

Or is it partly that and partly a self-sacrifice on the altar of Democracy, for her ideal President, Woodrow Wilson? Is she trying to kill two birds with one stone? Possibly. In that case she thinks she is winning votes for Wilson and certainly can be sure of a better opinion of herself from the many of her own sex she has hitherto viewed as of the blue stocking variety.

There is nothing in Gertrude Atherton's career which warrants the belief that she likes to pose. Quite the contrary is the case. Brilliant writer that she is, she must certainly realize by this time that her genius does not excuse her smoking in the eyes of most of her sisters. In "Julia France," her latest novel, she argues for much-needed social and economic reforms. It is an appeal from her heart. Her keen mind may perceive that its lesson may fall as seed on hardened soil because of much dislike of her personally for one habit uncommon with American women. Possibly that is the real reason behind her promise. I do not pretend to know, but I guess it has something to do with it.

Bassity Got Well Thrashed

All bad men looking for a fight sooner or later meet their master. Jerome Bassity had this experience the other night when he got thoroughly thrashed by an athletic Swede fresh from the Alaskan fishing camps. This is the first time Bassity, the former ruler of the worst section of the tenderloin, has "broken out" since the election of Mayor Rolph. In the old days, he always carried a gun and when in his cups "shot up" any old place he happened to be in. Since Rolph has been in office, Bassity has never carried a weapon. He was warned not to do so and was also plainly told to keep quiet and behave himself. It is astonishing how many times this fellow has shot at people and escaped prosecution. He could never do so again, and it is mighty lucky for him he did not have a weapon to use the night the descendant of the Vikings whipped him in good style in a hammam bath resort. His insult which brought on the row was particularly outrageous. This is the fellow who several years ago boasted that he could not eat and drink on less than $25 a day. He got his money from the lowest sources and what he is still getting comes from the same places. He is a dead duck, however, even as a tenderloin politician.

Two Democratic Jokes

Two political jokes of the minstrel variety evidently have spread all over the country very quickly to the delight of Miss Democracy. The latest, I think, originating in New York, is this: "What will be the most popular drink in New York the morning after the November election?" "Wilson, with a little Sulzer."

Ahem.

The other, which is supposed to have come out of Chicago recently, is after this style:

"What will Roosevelt say the morning after the inauguration next March when he goes to the White House?"

"Good morning, President Wilson."

How Conductor Made Change

An old arithmetical puzzle about making change between a conductor and a passenger has been revived among the school children and is all the craze just now among them. The passenger offers the conductor a silver dollar from which to take out the five-cent fare. That and a $5 gold piece was all the passenger had.

"I can't change the dollar," said the car official, "but give me the $5, for I am just able to change it."

This is the way he did the money changing act with it while he was unable to take the fare out of the dollar. He gave the passenger two silver dollars, a $2.50 gold piece and his remaining change of four ten-cent pieces and a nickel.

Bread and Butter Still Free

For the present at least there is no indication of the local hotels following the example of some of those in New York in deciding the other day to hereafter charge for bread and butter at meals. Some of the local second-class restaurants and cafes are already charging for boiled potatoes owing to their increased price. This is a great innovation for them, for this vegetable has been for years served free in the boiled state. They would like to charge for bread and butter, but cannot get all in the business to enter into an agreement on the subject. They are agitating the matter because the cafeterias are successfully charging a small figure for those articles. A cent and a half or two cents for bread and butter in the cafeterias, especially the large ones with hundreds of daily patrons, soon runs into no mean money pile. Three of them have figured they get by this means about $300 a month, or enough to pay their rent. In other words, they are getting between $10 and $12 a day from this source. Many others get all the way from $50 to $90 a month in this way. In fact, it has become a saying with all of them that their rent is taken care of by a small charge for butter and bread.

Australian Frozen Lamb Barred

The San Francisco Stewards' Association at its banquet last Monday night at the Bellevue hotel did not have frozen lamb from Australia on its menu because of the objection of Uncle Sam. Here is the tale of disappointment: Neil Neilson, the resident agent of the Australian Commonwealth, was a guest of honor and he had consented to speak on creating a new business at this port by the importation from his country of frozen carcasses of sheep and lambs.

The members of the association were convinced by Neilson that this new business would have the effect of cutting down the consumers' present high meat bills on this coast. Chairman J. J. Richards, national vice-president of the stewards' body, after arranging some time ago for the Australian to speak, thought he would give him and the banqueters a genuine surprise. He cabled to the antipodes for several frozen carcasses to be served at the feast, calculating their arrival to a nicety. They arrived in good shape on the preceding Friday. The government officials saw the consignment on the ship manifest, but refused to have it landed on the ground that no American meat inspector was present at the time the animals were slaughtered. Great was Richards' disappointment, but he had to bow to the inevitable. He told the banqueters of his little culinary conspiracy and of how it had gone awry.

Loves Art, But Purse-tight

She is one of the newly rich, petroleum in the San Joaquin valley having suddenly been discovered on her land and swelled her exchequer. There are no signs as yet of her essaying the role of the climber in society. Probably it is too early and the opportunity for the effort does not show itself. However, she is already affecting art but with a tight hold on her purse and little or no knowledge of the subject. She was admiring the Goethe and Schiller statues in Golden Gate Park the other day from her limousine. Contemplating the heroic size of the figures of the two famous Germans, she remarked with an air of wisdom and in vein enthusiastic:

"My, but men were tall in Europe in their day."

The local sculptor with her on the ride, who was fondly hoping to get a commission at a good figure from her for some work in his studio, agreed with her with a face as free from a smile, or expression of surprise, as that of an old Indian cigar sign.

She paid his studio a visit the next morning, much to his delight, and inspected the model of his latest work. She was charmed, said as much and was enthusiastic about it. So his hopes of a big purchase rose higher.

"I have never seen anything I like better. I must have it," she went on to say.

The artist's spirits were by this time on a high aeroplane stunt. He wondered to himself whether she would like to have it in marble, copper or bronze and was quickly figuring the difference in cost.

The lady kept on praising the model until the artist was fairly entranced. Finally she made a decision.

"A fine photograph I think," was her decision. "Yes, make an artistic photograph but not too large."

She hasn't got the photo but the sculptor still has his chagrin.

Sister of Mrs. Katherine Gould

The big sight-seeing cars, with their parties of Chinatown tourists, still continue to make the curio store of Wang Sun Yue and his white wife an objective point. This is the woman who is the sister of Katherine Clemons Gould, the former actress and the divorced wife of Howard Gould. The couple have a small store on Dupont street near California and most of their curios on sale are relics of the fire of 1906 collected in abundance by themselves at that time. They appear to make a fair living according to the standard of their Chinese surroundings and the "rubber-neck" wagon "spieler" is at great pains to tell his tourists who Mrs. Wang Sun Yue is. One of the tourists last night was particularly interested in getting a look at her, for he is a former clerk in the New York office of the man who is the attorney for Katherine Clemons Gould. He tells of how she was recently sued for a $3314 bill of drygoods and had to pay it and of how she is now trying to recover this sum from her former husband, in spite of the fact that she is receiving from him $36,000 alimony a year. The contrast between the two sisters is what riveted the attention of this young Easterner on the curio shop and the white woman behind the showcase. He explained that the bill of goods sued for was contracted by Mrs. Gould before her divorce. Her husband was legally responsible for all her bills then. This is why she contends he should reimburse her for having been compelled to pay it.

Senator Bourne's Dollar Cigars

Members of the local Oregon Society, who believe in fair play in politics as well as in other things, are incensed at the decision of United States Senator Jonathan Bourne of that State to make another effort at re-election by going on the November ballot by petition after having been turned down at the late primaries by the Republicans in favor of Ben Selling of Portland. His candidacy, of course, will greatly improve the chances of the Democratic candidate, Dr. Lane. Bourne can't win, they say, and the only effect of his fight will be to endanger the chances of Selling. Bourne helped frame the preferential senatorial primary law of the State and was the first one elected under it. He has always shouted for the rule of the majority, but now is not willing to abide by that rule. Bourne was born in the lap of luxury and has always had a barrel of money. His first election to the Senate cost him a mint. This time the prediction is made that all of his money could not win him the fight. He is in a peculiar position from all accounts, one that explains Selling's victory over him at the primaries. Neither the Bull Moose nor the La Follette people of Oregon take kindly to him, charging that prior to the Chicago convention he played fast and loose with both Roosevelt and the Wisconsin man. Because of this feeling against him, the wily Senator did not stump the State before the primary, contenting himself by getting on a lofty pedestal and addressing an open letter to the voters setting forth an account of his stewardship. Bourne is the man who a year or more before the Chicago convention put up a prize of $1000 for the essay giving the best reasons why Roosevelt should take a second elective term. It was after that that he began flirting with the La Follette people. He is the man of whom it is said that he can be easily trailed by the expensive cigars he throws around. He has them specially made in Havana at $1 per cigar.

Beginning of Mobilization of Atlantic Fleet Stirring Spectacle.

NEW YORK THROGS
GREET MACHING MEN

Special Religious Services for Sailors Will Be Held Today.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Today marks the official beginning of the mobilization of the Atlantic fleet in the Hudson river.

The City of New York is used up along the east bank of the river from the Battery to Grant's Tomb. Regular business has practically been suspended and the big town is enjoying a holiday with the few enlivened men and officers of the navy. Even all social affairs have removed themselves into "naval engagements."

The official opening started off with a grand land parade, a function which the men from the ships had exclusively to themselves. There were 6000 men in line, and they made a brave showing.

GREET SAILORS.

The brilliant procession started at the foot of West Ninety-sixth street, through Ninety-sixth street, Central Park South, and then down Fifth avenue to Twenty-second street.

As the sailor boys proceeded down the city's great thoroughfare, which has witnessed many a notable parade, but none more brilliant than this one, the onlookers on both sides of the avenue greeted them with the waving of flags and handkerchiefs and with tremendous cheering.

However, because their lot may be in other times of peace, the American Jacks are in a mellow, limelight today and enjoy it. They have none of that cynical indifference to public homage, such as Dickie discovered in Tommy Atkins. They are perfectly willing to let the people of New York show them a good time.

"The Best Is Always the Cheapest"

When you get dentistry, get the best or none at all. It may cost you a little more than the other kind, but it's worth it.

Some folks have an idea that one dentist is just as capable as another. Unfortunately for the public, such is not the case.

These are dentists who will fill a tooth for fifty cents, but their work is worse than nothing. They are dentists who fill with fifty-cent buttons and after cents' worth of ability. They tell you that their work is exactly the same as that of first-class dentists who charge two or three times as much. If that was they would have to dentists from every part of the world cannot be done by the ridiculous low prices they ask.

No matter where you go, you'll never get more than you pay for. There are very few philanthropists in the dental profession. Good dentists, call for good materials, and good materials cost money. No dentist can fill a tooth for fifty cents, using first-class material, and make any profit.

I don't attempt to compete with "baggage counter" dentists, although my work is the finest that dental science can produce, yet my prices are not excessive. I charge just what the work is worth, and no more. Besides, I offer you something that you can't find in other dental offices—dental treatment free from pain.

My great discovery, "Terrysthesia," makes it possible for the most nervous person to enjoy perfect ease and comfort while having his teeth fixed. No matter how sensitive your teeth may be, you won't have any consciousness of pain during the time you enter my office until you leave it. Terrysthesia does away with the torture in dental operations of every description.

I wish every man and woman who has some teeth missing to call and let me explain how I replace them with my Rex Alveolar method without using plated or bridge work. Any person who has two or more sound, natural teeth remaining in the jaws can have the missing ones restored in this way.

Rex Alveolar teeth are put in the mouth to stay, and won't fall out or work loose. They are almost equal to natural teeth in appearance, service and durability, guarantee them to give absolute satisfaction to the one.

It won't cost you a cent to have a talk with me. Call at once and get my estimate on any dental work you require. Examination free to all.

Hours 8:30 to 5:30; Sunday, 10 to 12.

Those who cannot call should write for the free book explaining my Terrysthesia and Alveolar methods.

MISS CALHOUN BECOMES BRIDE OF WILSON HICKOX

But 160 Invitations Issued for Brilliant Wedding at Euclid Heights

CLEVELAND, Oct. 12.—One of the most notable weddings of the autumn was celebrated at 4:30 o'clock today when Miss Martha M. Calhoun, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Calhoun of Euclid Heights was united in marriage to Wilson B. Hickox.

Society had long looked forward to this event. Everyone who knew the Calhouns expected the wedding to be a replica of the marriage of the second daughter, which was celebrated on June 29, 1911, and was heralded all over the country as one of the most fashionable affairs of the year.

PLANS ARE CHANGED.

When Miss Martha's engagement to the wealthy son of one of Cleveland's oldest families was announced a similar event was planned to take place in St. Paul's Episcopal church, to be followed by a large reception at the home. But "the best laid plans of mice and men gang aft agley," and a few months ago society was startled by the announcement of a broken engagement. The marriage at the church was cancelled and Miss Calhoun went to California.

But the broach did not last long upon Miss Calhoun's return the wedding date was set. Even then society looked forward to a wedding celebration of great splendor, but fate again intervened and the sudden bereavement in the Hickox family, the death of Chas. G. Hickox, changed the plans. It was feared also that the sale of Euclid Heights property, which would close the street leading to the Calhoun mansion, might interfere with the wedding, but the sale was postponed.

160 INVITATIONS.

The wedding of today was in no sense as large as that of the second daughter, Miss Paul Scott Foster, only 160 invitations having been issued, but it was carried out with the same exquisite detail in appointment. Rev. Frank DuMoulin, dean of Trinity cathedral, performed the ceremony in the beautiful balcony of the Calhoun home, as the soft shades of twilight mingled with the glow of a hundred candles.

The huge room, which opens on to an Italian garden, was decorated in the soft tones of a pinkish gray. The altar built in the stage at one end was banked in palms interspersed with snowy chrysanthemums. Tall standards were topped with cathedral candles. The white satin kneeling cushion was draped in lace, an heirloom in the family.

The bridal party formed on the second floor and descended the stairway to the hall, thence through the drawing-room to the ballroom at the end of which the dean and Hickox, with his best man, Frank Browne, awaited the coming of the bride.

Six ushers, Carl Blossom, Henry Curts, Henry Raymond, Patrick Calhoun Jr., Kenneth Wyck and Sleton Merin of New York preceded the bridal party. Then followed the matron of honor, Mrs. Paul Foster, the bride's sister. The bride walked with her father, Patrick Calhoun, who gave her in her marriage. Her gown of exquisite lace, an heirloom worn by Mrs. Patrick Calhoun at her wedding and by Mrs. Foster at her marriage, was draped over soft ivory.

The bridegroom's gift, a beautiful string of pearls, to which was attached a diamond pendant, set in platinum, was worn with the handsome costume. The bridal bouquet was of white orchids showered with illes of the valley, which were to the tops of her white satin slippers.

SUPPER FOR 100 GUESTS.

Supper was served to 100 guests at small tables, arranged in the breakfast and dining rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Hickox left immediately on their wedding trip, the destination of which they did not reveal. Upon their return they will make their residence in the Calhoun home. Mr. and Mrs. Foster have resided since their wedding, the Foster's contemplating going soon to take their residence in California.

Among the out-of-town guests were Sheldon Martin of New York, Mrs. Charles R. Hickox of New York, Miss Maynard and Benjamin Maynard of San Francisco and Mrs. Charles B. Germain of New York.

IMPORTATION OF MATERIALS HEAVY

409,000,000 Pounds of Hides and Skins Are Received.

WASHINGTON, October 12.—Importation of manufacturers' materials into the United States is larger in 1912 than ever before. That the manufacturers of the country are busy is evidenced by the fact that the importation of that class of their raw materials which they draw from other parts of the world exceeds the imports of any other class of goods in the corresponding period of any earlier year. Figures just completed by the Division of Statistics of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce show that the importation of hides and skins in the eight months ending with August, 1912, amounted to 409 million pounds, against 278 million in the corresponding months of 1911, 351 million in 1910, and 327 million in 1909. The figures for 1912 exceed those of any previous year, the 8 months' figures being 102½ million pounds, against 88 million pounds in the corresponding months of 1911 and 97½ million in 1910. The corresponding figure for 1911, 72½ million pounds, compared with 72½ million in the corresponding months of 1910, and 73 million in the same months of 1912. (The cotton imports in 1912 exceed those of any previous year, the 8 months' figures being 102½ million pounds, against 88 million pounds in the corresponding months of 1911 and 97½ million in 1910. Anarchy and Confiscation in Taxation.

Under the delusive and more or less seductive title of "Home Rule in Taxation," a vicious proposition will be submitted to the voters in November. It was designed as a single tax measure, but it opens the door to all sorts of fantastic schemes of taxation, and, if adopted, will throw the local revenue system of the State into utter confusion.

It will destroy all uniformity in taxation, and will abolish the present law which requires all property other than that of public service corporations, which pay a tax on earnings for the support of the State government, to be assessed at its full cash value. The proposed law breaks down the constitutional barriers against unequal and unjust taxation, and provides a way for all sorts of exemptions and archaic exemptions. The proposed constitutional amendment reads as follows:

"Section 5th. Any county, city and county, city, town, district or township in this State is hereby empowered to raise revenues for its local purposes and to provide for the time or times of collecting taxes for such purposes in such manner as it may determine, by ordinance or resolution, adopted by a majority vote of the qualified electors thereof, voting thereon at an election held on the question of establishing a new revenue system, or of altering or amending any system of taxation now or hereafter existing for raising such local revenue. Such proposed system or amendment thereof may be submitted at any general or special election held in such county, city and county, city, town, township or district, by initiative petition as provided by law or by resolution of the legislative body of such county or other political subdivision above enumerated."

"Property may be classified for the purposes of taxation or exemption from taxes; and taxes or exemption therefrom shall be uniform for all property for each of such classes; provided that no tax for any local purpose, except for payment of the principal and interest of any bonded indebtedness created and outstanding by any such county, city and county, city, town, township or district, prior to the 8th day of November, 1910, shall be levied on any property set aside for purposes of taxation for State revenue, nor shall any such tax be levied upon any property exempt from local taxation by this Constitution or by the Constitution or laws of the United States."

The proponents of this measure are James G. Maguire, who has been the leader in the single tax movement in California for the last twenty-five years; J. Stitt Wilson, the Socialist Mayor of Berkeley; E. P. E. Troy, pestiferous agitator in San Francisco, and Hugh Craig, Mayor of Piedmont. All these men are single-taxers. They want to make the land bear the whole burden of taxation, which would decrease the value of every real estate owner's property; they would also exempt building improvements and personal property from taxation. Mr. Craig is an avowed advocate of this system, and Judge Maguire has been preaching the doctrine of confining all direct taxation to land ever since Henry George published his book, "Progress and Poverty."

This home rule in taxation amendment was framed to make Henry George's ideas effective. It paves the way to what is called nationalizing the land, which bluntly means confiscating it by a perversion of the taxing power.

But in opening the door for the single tax, this amendment pulls down the bars for all sorts of taxation schemes of the most grotesque character. It permits any local subdivision to say what classes of property shall be taxed and what classes exempt. It destroys all uniformity in tax laws, or rather abolishes all the revenue laws now in existence, and allows each county, municipality or district to set up its own system. Moreover, it provides for the punitive taxation of minorities by majorities and provides for property confiscation under the forms of law.

As Mark L. Requa, president of the Alameda County Tax Association, points out, any county, municipality or district may have any form of taxation that it may decide upon without reference to what forms other counties, municipalities and districts may have. As Mr. Requa says:

"Factories may be exempted in one district; residences in another; all building improvements in another, and the tax placed directly upon land; or all lands and buildings below a certain valuation may be exempted. Taxes may even be graded in proportion to the amount of property the citizens own. In short, the majority in each local subdivision will be at perfect liberty, under this amendment, to do precisely what it pleases; the majority may be exempted from taxation entirely and the whole cost of government placed upon certain classes of citizens and certain classes of property. Equal rights will be destroyed along with equality in taxation."

The amendment is a direct attack of the value of every landholding in the State. It strikes at the rights of all the farmers and makes unstable property values since political action may depress some classes and increase the value of other classes of property. It is the doctrine of Socialism applied to taxation.

Vote it down. It is the last proposition on the official ballot.

The Boston baseball team has won three games to one lost to the New York Giants. The proposition is about right, according to California standards. Three of the Red Sox players are Californians, while the Giants have only one.

The Return Tide to Europe.

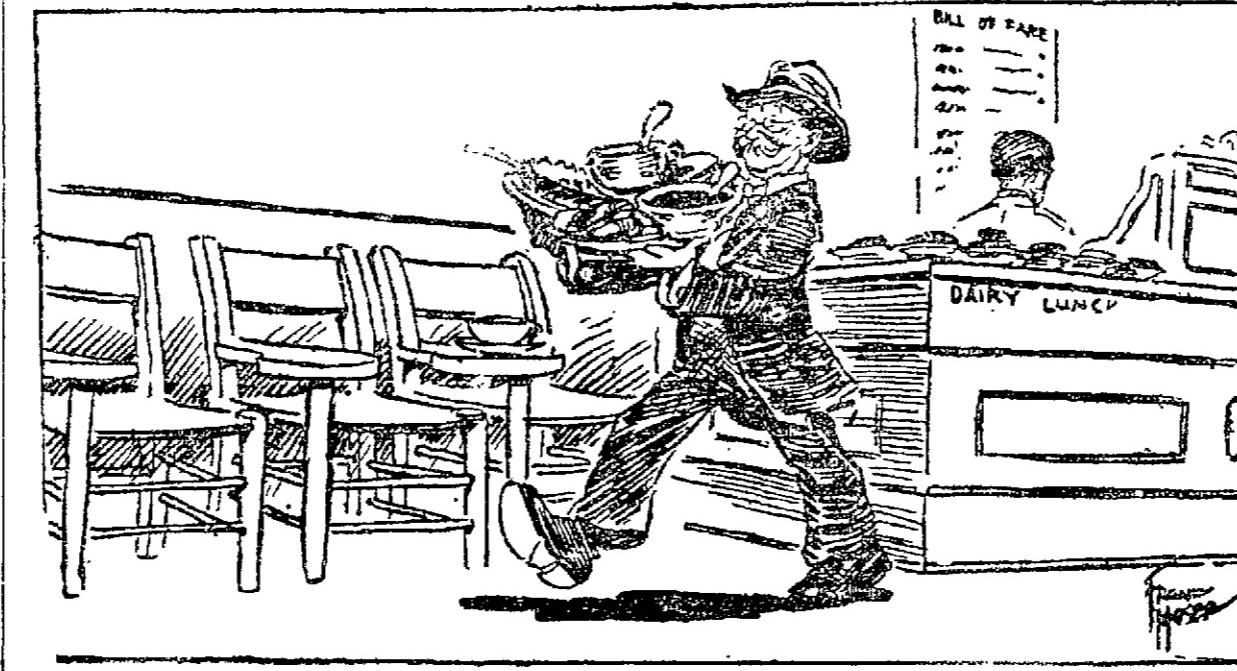

The New York Sun has discovered that foreign immigration is not adding as much to the population of the United States as is popularly supposed. There is a large and steady current of immigrants returning to the countries whence they originally came. Last year more than a million immigrants arrived, but 400,000 went away. The balance was not so large in our favor or disfavor.

In the last nineteen years 4,800,000 of the 11,000,000 immigrants that came to this country returned. In 1907, the banner headline was, 1,200,000 arrived and 325,000 departed. The following year 600,000 came and 440,000 departed.

A large proportion of immigrants do not come to stay permanently, but merely long enough to make a small competence that will enable them to live in comfort in their own country. They return as soon as they have accumulated a few hundred or a few thousand dollars. Italians and Greeks are more tenacious in affection for their birthplace and the associations in which they were reared than other people. Hence they are always coming and going.

An Oakland lady tells an amusing experience while traveling as the boss of the Progressive machine?

TWO VIEWS OF DAD

DES MOINES REGISTER AND LEADER.

with her family in Eastern Europe. Unable to make the landlord of a village inn in Bulgaria understand either German, French or Italian spoken in the American fashion, the travelers expressed their perplexity in their native speech.

"Oh, I understand English," said the brigand-looking landlord, and the wants of the party were soon made known.

"Where did you learn to speak English?" at last inquired one of the party.

"In America; I lived there for several years," replied the returned immigrant.

"Whereabouts in America?"

"Oh, in a faraway country called California. I kept a restaurant in a place called Oakland."

So the Bulgarian landlord proved an old townsman of the travelers, and was delighted to see and entertain them. He explained that he had gone to California to make his fortune, and when he had made what he called his fortune had returned to his native land and settled down to live among his people the life he had pictured to himself as an ideal one. He was a landowner, a man of substance and a citizen of consequence among his neighbors—what more did he want? California was a rich country, pleasant to dwell in, but he preferred to live as his ancestors had done among a primitive people of simple wants and small means who spoke his own tongue and shared in his thoughts and aspirations.

The case of this Bulgarian is typical. He did just what thousands are doing each year. He came to America to make money, but returned to Bulgaria to live. We wonder what becomes of the swarms coming over in every immigrant ship, but we take no note of those going away. Nearly fifty per cent of those who arrive return after they have remained a few years and have gained enough to satisfy their modest desires. They prefer the simple life in their native land to the turmoil and bustle on this side of the water among a people who are forever on the run or the drive, never tired, never satisfied and ever grasping at something beyond their reach.

Christian soldiers are not to be exempt from the operation of the criminal law, it seems. Marshall Black has been arrested—for uttering a back check. Apparently he has been arrested on this comparatively trivial charge to prevent him from running away. Will he be permitted to escape punishment for looting the Palo Alto Building and Loan Association by compounding a felony, or will he be treated as an ordinary thief? is a question that remains as yet unanswered. THE TRIBUNE has no animosity toward Black, but it sees no reason why he should be granted immunity when other men are sent to prison for offenses of far less magnitude and moral turpitude. We object to the law being used as whitewashing machine for crooks clothed in the mantle of hypocrisy. An effort is being made to shield Black because he has pretended to be a particularly honest man—because he posed as a reformer at the very time he was stealing the funds of which he was the custodian, and was assailing the courts as corrupt when he was stealing with both hands.

There is no limit to the mendacity of the San Francisco Bulletin. That unspeakable journal has even less respect for public intelligence than it has for the truth. It audaciously charges that Pat Calhoun kept the Taft electors off the official ballot. Of course Calhoun bossed the Legislature which passed the iniquitous law which made the theft of the Republican silver possible, and of course he prompted the shameless advantage that was taken of that law. It is a bad law, as Chief Justice Beatty says, but bad as it is it would not have automatically committed robbery, but for the affirmative action of a boss-ridden gang that deprived Republicans of their party name and a place on the official ballot for the Taft electors under the Republican designation. The very journals which are now saying that Pat Calhoun is responsible for the theft advised the steal and are still defending it. But when did Pat Calhoun supersede Meyer Lissner as the boss of the Progressive machine?

MAKING CHEMICAL MAN

According to reports from London, the scientific world has been amazed by the assertion of Professor Shaffer in the Sunday meeting of the British Association that life can be created by chemicals. Coming from one of the faculty of Edinburgh University, giving his particular attention to the origin and maintenance of life, Professor Shaffer's statement is, of course, entitled to consideration. What he said was this:

We may fairly conclude that all energy in living matter is derived from the sun. But we can't get to the conclusion that the power of production of life must be due to the sun's own power, but does not unravel the mystery of life. Speculation on the possibility of solving the problem is akin to speculating on the possibility of using U. S. airships that may carry a man into the upper atmosphere. Until an actual demonstration is given, the world will remain unmoved. Even the person who admits chemistry may ultimately produce some form of molecule life would have to conclude that its development into man, with man's consciousness, would be a long time coming.—Washington Post.

All the forces known to chemistry and physics have been used in the vain attempt to produce from chemical compounds some form of life. To say that some day the problem will be solved is to give an evidence of sublime faith in man's own powers, but does not unravel the mystery of life. Speculation on the possibility of solving the problem is akin to speculating on the possibility of using U. S. airships that may carry a man into the upper atmosphere. Until an actual demonstration is given, the world will remain unmoved. Even the person who admits chemistry may ultimately produce some form of molecule life would have to conclude that its development into man, with man's consciousness, would be a long time coming.—Washington Post.

ELECTRIC ROADS ARE BEING BUILT AT RAPID RATE

The Remarkable Development
Is Shown at Convention
In Chicago.

5000 PERSONS ARE
IN ATTENDANCE

The "Relations of Corporations
With Public" Important Theme.

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—The immense development of the electric railway systems of this country attracted a good deal of attention in Chicago this week as a consequence of the convention of the American Electric Railway Association held here October 7-12. Five thousand persons were present in attendance. It was shown that during the last twenty-four years about 1800 miles of electric railways have been built annually in the United States.

Twenty years ago (in 1882) there were only 500 miles of street railways in the United States. These railways were operated with horses or mule cars.

In 1888, electricity was first used as motive power. This was in Richmond, Va.

In 1890, there were 8000 miles of street railways in the United States.

In 1912, the electric railways in the United States comprise not only street car lines, but interurban lines, elevated lines, underground lines, underwater lines, and electrified sections of such important steam railroads as the Pennsylvania, the New York Central, and the New Haven and New Haven-Hartford.

PLATE EXTENSIONS.

Each of these steam railroads is planning large extensions to its existing electrical divisions. The steam railroads entering Chicago will soon begin the work of electrifying their Chicago divisions.

The vast development of the highway trolley and the recent construction of many miles of electric railway, which do exclusively occupy the highways, have been of immense social and moral benefit, not yet fully recognized by the American people. What formerly were rural districts, or remote suburbs of large towns, have been brought into neighborhood with these towns. Distance has been to a great extent eliminated. This, with the utilization of the telephone, has caused great productivity in many parts of the country where before there was slight productivity. Moreover, the spirit of brotherhood among the American people is closer together, and within a few years will probably greatly decentralize the congested cities, since, when the population can safely, easily and cheaply be carried back and forth between rural and suburban districts and the heart of the cities, it will be sure to follow the electric railway line.

ROADS 43,000 MILES LONG.

The mileage of the electric railway lines in this country today is 43,000 miles, owned and operated by 1300 railroads, which carry over 100,000,000 billions of passengers in a year. They carry over 90,000 cars; employ more than 200,000 persons; represent a capital investment of $5,000,000,000, and their gross earnings are $600,000,000.

The American Electric Railway Association, which has just been holding its convention in Chicago, is the representative of this colossal industry, not representing, however, the commercial financial sector, but in regard to technical and educational matters. The association is a voluntary body. Its membership comprises not only the railway companies themselves, but also their individual officers, heads of departments and hundreds of employees.

COLLECTS INFORMATION.

The function of the American Electric Railway Association and its allied bodies is to collect and distribute among its members information regarding the standardization of operation and equipment of all railroads in all its branches, to promote the welfare of employees, the safety of the public, and to improve the public service. Four hundred expert railway men do the work allotted to its fifty committees covering every part of the complex business of railroading.

Probably the most important subject which the association has before it, until its meeting is the "Relations of Corporations With the Public They Serve." This was a leading topic at the convention.

Last spring the president, Thomas N. Carr, and J. W. Johnson, former executive officers of the association, traveled 15,000 miles undertaking a campaign of education on this subject. They traversed thirty-five states, visited thirty-two cities, addressed several public meetings in each city. From New York they went as far south as Galveston, as far north as Vancouver, B.C., as far west as Los Angeles and San Francisco.

EXHIBITION HELD.

In connection with this "Campaign of Education" and the Chicago convention, a great exhibition of electric railway material, appliances and equipment was held at the International Amphitheatre, Chicago. That which goes into electric railway construction and operation from raw materials and end-products, trolley cars, was shown. There were 350 exhibitors.

The delegation to the convention represented electric railways in every State in the Union, and came also from Canada, Mexico, several South American countries, Australia, England, France and Germany.

Affiliated with the American Electric Railway Association are the associations of electric railway accountants, engineers, claim agents, traffic and transportation men, and the manufacturers of material and equipment. All these societies met at Chicago this week in the convention.

BREAK IN PRICES -- IN LONDON MARKETS

Panicky Opening Is Followed by Day of Excitement and Demoralization.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—After a panicky opening, followed by a day of excitement with a demoralizing break in prices, the stock market rallied temporarily, then closed flat at the low prices.

Consols fell more than half a point, Austrian and Turkish government bonds point apiece. German, per cent, 4½ Japanese, 3½, and there were heavy sales.

Because of this state of affairs it is an easy matter for the "bulb combination" of La Salle street to swing prices upward or downward to suit their own sweet will.

There is a lack of public speculation, and as is always the case when professionals are the only ones in the market they stick together not unlike so many sheep.

WHEAT PRICES GAIN.

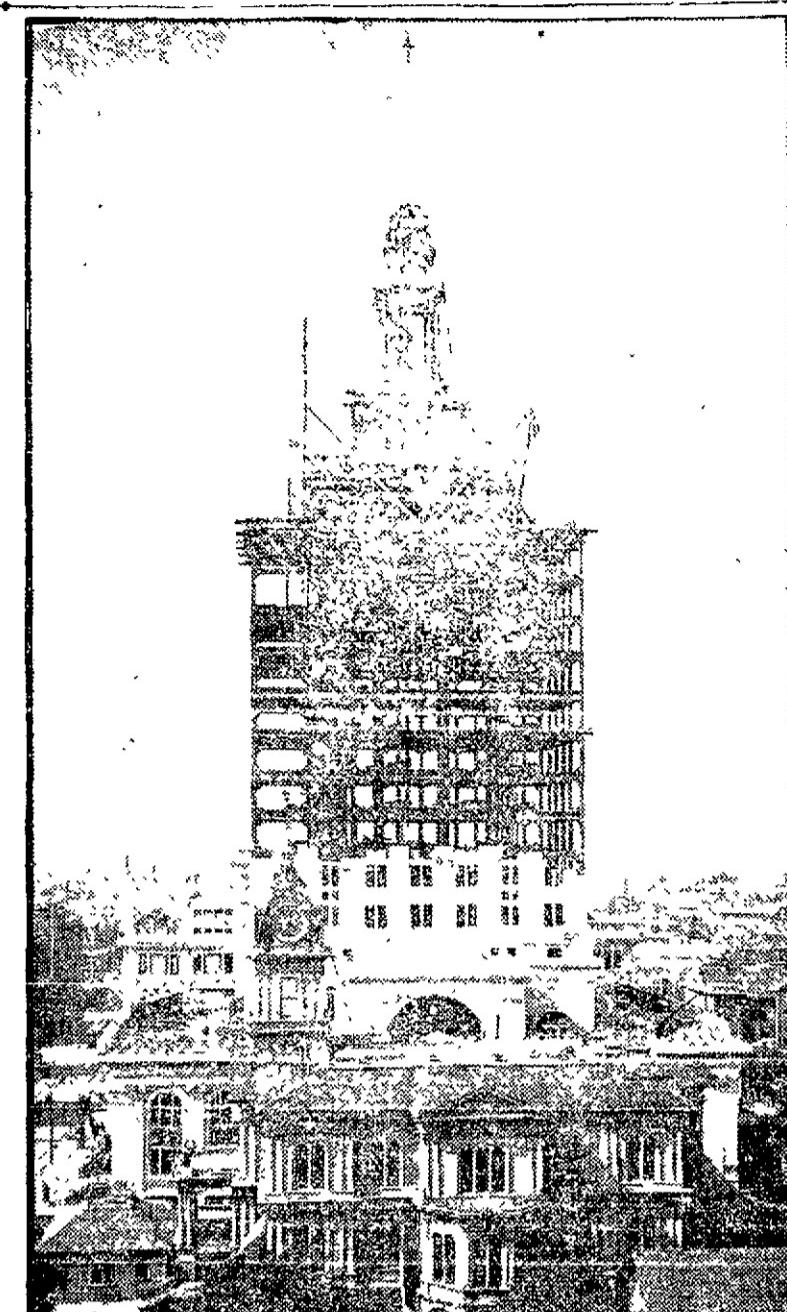

Wheat prices gained 14 2/3¢ during the last week and there were many who believe that values will do better for both the farmer and the market as these futures are held by the strongest buy concern in the local market.

Now that Arthur Cutten is out of the way on the short side of corn and the market is in the hands of James A. Patterson and the Armour Grain Company there is a likelihood that the buying by the public will be curtailed.

It is expected that the shorts in the market will be covered at a price considerably higher than the present level.

And in this event prices will be bid up considerably higher than those now prevalent.

CITY HALL CORNERSTONE LAID 1 YEAR AGO STONE MASONS WORK ON TWO STORIES

TWELVE MONTHS' CONSTRUCTION CARRIES WALLS TO GREAT HEIGHT; BUT ONE LIFE LOST

The cornerstone of the new City Hall was laid with impressive ceremonies just one year ago today, President William Howard Taft being the honored guest of the city on that occasion. Since that time the steel work of the exterior walls has been carried forward.

Despite the delay of almost four months from the non-arrival of structural steel from the East, the work has been carried on with expedition and care. H. H. Ashley, superintendent of construction, and Assistant Superintendent Zeltzsch, have given their entire time to the direction of the work, with a staff of 200 men under their supervision all the time.

It is promised that the departments now housed in the old city hall will be moved by January or February to the new building, as the lower floors are now being fitted up for occupancy. The entire building will be completed by midsummer.

A feature of the work now under way is that the stone masons are building at the seventh and fourteenth floors simultaneously. This has never been attempted on a building in California before, but is a method occasionally pursued in the East to expedite the work. The granite blocks are being swung into place on the two levels with care and accuracy, and so far no accidents have occurred.

The new City Hall holds a record for tall buildings in the matter of protection of workmen and mechanics.

While the average runs as high as a death to every three floors on a skyscraper of the city hall type, there has been only one death since the commencement of work, a mechanic having been killed by falling through two floors.

The following are the quantities of material used in the first year's work on the new City Hall:

3700 tons of structural steel, 175,000 cubic feet of concrete, weighing 13,125 tons, 784,000 brick, 52,000 sq. ft. hollow tile partitions, 200 tons architectural terra cotta, 35,400 cubic feet of granite, weighing 3186 tons.

UNREST ABROAD IN B'NAI B'RITH DAY CHICAGO MARKETS

REFLECTION OF CONDITION OF THE WEAKNESS IN LIVERPOOL AND LONDON CENTERS.

(By JOSEPH F. PRITCHARD.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—There was a reflection of continued unrest abroad in the strength shown by the Liverpool wheat market, coupled with the weakness in the London stock market today. Conditions point to a continuation of an unsettled state in the Balkans and this will more than likely cause an irregular breadstuff situation at Chicago and elsewhere.

While the export sales of wheat day to day are not of large volume, they are larger than is generally known. Buyers are anxious to keep the grain world from knowing exactly what is being done in the matter of takings for foreign shipment and purchases, it is said, are made with the understanding that all transactions in breadstuffs will be kept under cover until they are at least a week or two old.

The situation in wheat may be called abnormal. We have raised a crop of 720,000,000 bushels in the United States and still there are no accumulations of this grain in any position.

Because of this state of affairs it is an easy matter for the "bulb combination" of La Salle street to swing prices upward or downward to suit their own sweet will.

There is a lack of public speculation, and as is always the case when professionals are the only ones in the market they stick together not unlike so many sheep.

MEDALS TO BE AWARDED.

Medals will be awarded those winning first place. Ribbons will go to those winning second and third places. Silver trophy cups will be awarded the two winning relay teams and the team scoring the highest number of points.

SERMON AT MASS.

San Francisco, Oct. 12.—Father Mahoney will preach tomorrow morning at the 10:30 o'clock mass at St. Ignatius' Church, Hayes and Shafter streets. In the evening Rev. Father Burns will deliver the sermon.

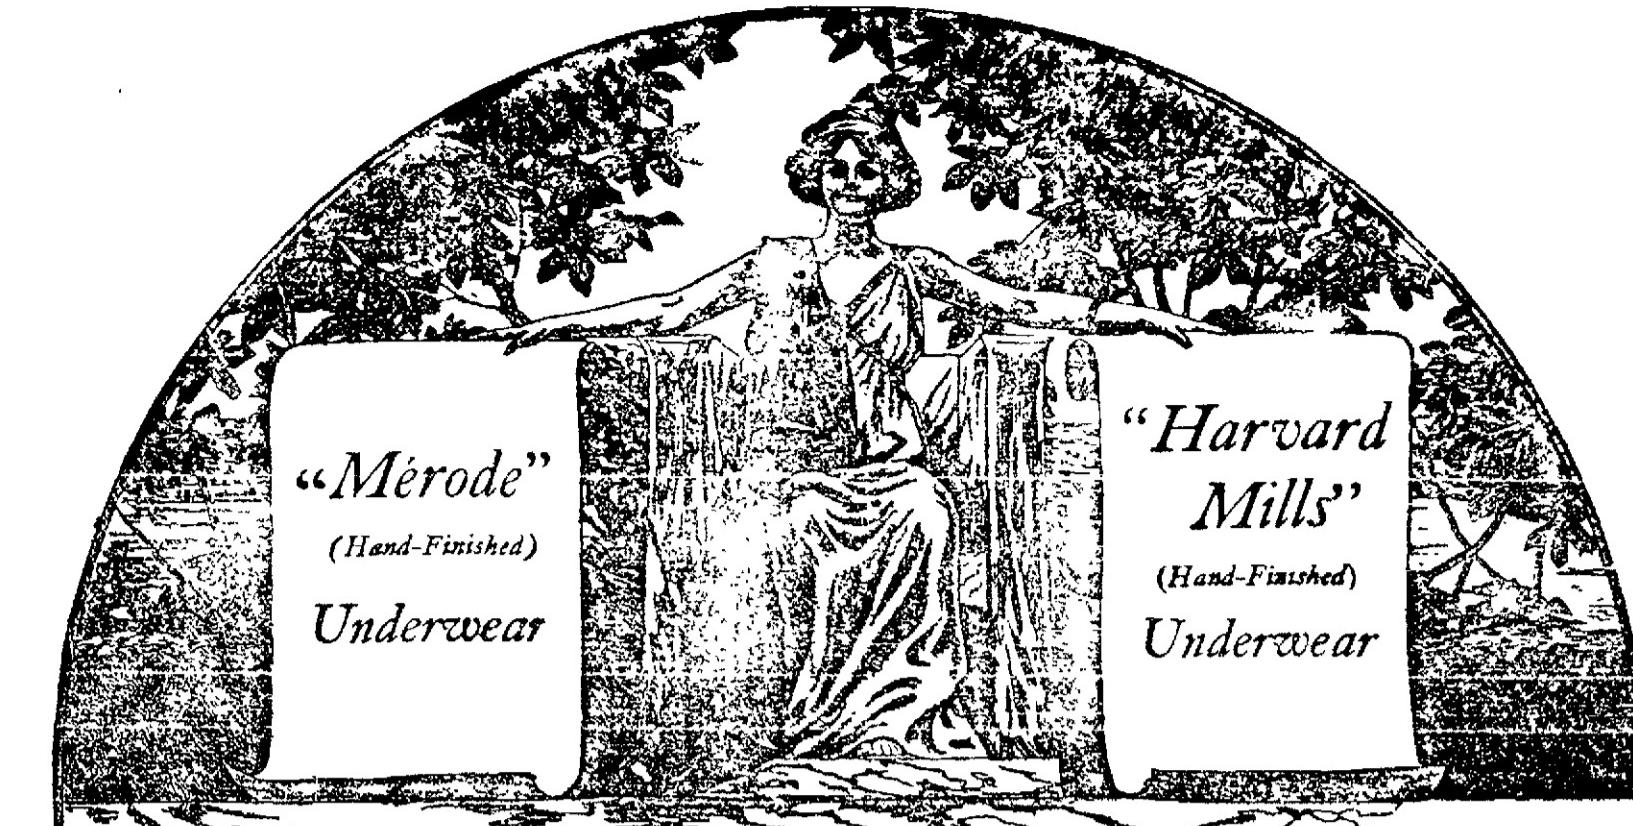

Now that Arthur Cutten is out of the way on the short side of corn and the market is in the hands of James A. Patterson and the Armour Grain Company there is a likelihood that the buying by the public will be curtailed.

It is expected that the shorts in the market will be covered at a price considerably higher than the present level.

TUNGSTEN ORE PRODUCTION LESS

METAL USED IN MAKING STEEL THAT WILL HOLD THEIR TEMPER.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Last year there was a sharp decrease in the production of tungsten ore owing to the decrease in the demand for tool steels, in which the bulk of the tungsten produced is used according to Frank L. Hess, in a report on this metal just issued by the United States Geological Survey. The production of domestic tungsten ore in 1911 amounted to 1,129 short tons of concentrates, carrying 60 per cent of tungsten trioxide, valued at $407,886; in 1910 the production amounted to 1,821 short tons, valued at $332,924.

Tungsten is used chiefly in making steels, and will hold their temper when heated, but is a most generally brittle metal, and is to be jacketed with copper-nickel alloy. To take the rifling and to act as a gas check, the tungsten bullet will require a copper band or its equivalent at the base.

The hardness and high tensile strength of wrought tungsten will give high penetrating power. The high melting point of tungsten will prevent the projectile from exploding when it strikes the target. The tungsten bullet will penetrate the target without exploding due to the combustion of the powder charge.

Henceforth the parent company will be known as the Humboldt Valley Sugar Co. of Fallon.

The new company will manufacture

USEFUL IN WAR.

Even for purposes of war tungsten may have its uses, and investigations are now being made with a view to its application in the manufacture of projectiles.

The present small-arm service projectile is made of lead with a jacket of copper-nickel alloy. The principal advantage of lead over iron, which would of course be cheaper, is that it has a higher specific gravity. Because of this fact a lead bullet will have a smaller cross section and will therefore encounter less air resistance to its flight than will an iron bullet of the same weight, and it will consequently give a flatter trajectory and longer range. An iron bullet of the same diameter as the lead bullet could of course be made of the same weight by increasing its length, but this would at once necessitate giving it a higher rotational velocity to keep its axis tangent to its flight. To impart this added tangential velocity would require an expenditure of energy and an increase in the weight of translation. With the exception of tungsten, lead is the densest metal which can be considered for this purpose, for gold is the cheapest of the other elements having a higher specific gravity than lead.

For military purposes the softness of lead is not an advantage, the soft-tipped bullet being tabooed in civilized warfare. For this reason and because of the fact that it is too weak to hold its temper when heated, it is to be jacketed with copper-nickel alloy.

To take the rifling and to act as a gas check, the tungsten bullet will require a copper band or its equivalent at the base.

The hardness and high tensile strength of wrought tungsten will give high penetrating power. The high melting point of tungsten will prevent the projectile from exploding when it strikes the target. Chicago Man Picked Up on
Berkeley Street Regains Consciousness.

BERKELEY, Oct. 12.—Taking two swallows from a stranger's flask of whisky at Salt Lake City, J. E. Bassett went into a long sleep from which he awoke today on a cot at the Roosevelt hospital. He was found unconscious on the sidewalk at Eleventh and Sixth streets two nights ago, but until today did not regain consciousness. He declares he can remember nothing of what has happened to him since he lost consciousness on a train between Salt Lake and Reno.

Bassett was formerly in the restaurant business in Chicago associated with a man he calls J. Ericsson and located at 605 North Church street in that city. He described the stranger who offered him the whisky and the man's description will be forwarded to the Salt Lake police.

That he set out from Salt Lake City with two suit cases containing all his property is also averred by Bassett. He does not know where the suit cases went. He declares he has never been either under arrest nor addicted to the drug habit. He declares he had $38 in his pocket the last he remembers on the Reno train.

APPOINTED TO OFFICE WHICH DOES NOT EXIST

PULLMAN, Oct. 12.—It is not often that a man is appointed by the postal department at Washington to a postoffice which does not exist, but such is the case with William Edington, a well-known resident here. Before he became a part of Richmondo by annexation the residents petitioned the department for a postoffice. When annexation took place the department turned down the petition, advising that as soon as necessary a sub-station of the Richmond office would be established here. At the time the petition was presented Edington applied for the postmastership and later received the appointment, which he will now ask the department to revoke, as being an appointment to an office which does not exist he considers it an empty honor.

$100 BLAZE WARMS UP TOWN OF SAN PABLO

SAN PABLO, Oct. 12.—Fire which was originated by tramps who have been making the place their shelter nights destroyed a fine large barn owned by Charles Kirkwood of this place, located in the rear of the residence on San Pablo avenue. The loss is estimated at $1,000, which is partially covered by insurance. The fire was discovered in the rear of the building and quickly spread until the whole structure was a mass of flame before any effort could be made to check its progress. Considerable hay and grain was destroyed. No wind was blowing at the time, and so the Kirkwood dwelling and neighboring residences were not damaged.

Among those who enjoyed the afternoon were Miss Gladys Hirst, Miss Amy Franklin, Miss Ruth Franklin, Miss Flora Muir, Miss Elizabeth Muir, Miss Beatrice Averill, Miss Helen Webe, Miss Helen Heikman, Miss Marion Hofford and the hostess.

Mr. T. J. Wrampelmier and his daughter, Miss Ethel Wrampelmier, will arrive home the first of November, after several months spent in Europe. After spending a few days in New York and several of the eastern cities, they will return to Berkeley in time for the first dance of the Berkeley academy.

Mr. Joseph Reed presided at an elaborate tea this afternoon when he entertained for his daughter, Miss Helen Reed, whose engagement to Bay Maynard was recently announced. Miss Reed has been visiting Miss Priscilla Williamson of Sacramento and she and her friend came down from Sacramento to be here for the tea.

The house was elaborately decorated in greens and yellow chrysanthemums, and over 500 guests attended the reception during the afternoon.

In the receiving party were Mrs. Joseph Reed and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. H. L. Reed, Miss Priscilla Williamson and Miss Hazel McEvilly, both of Sacramento.

Those who helped preside in the afternoon were Miss Ethel Wrampelmier, Mrs. C. Lynch, Miss C. M. Mooser, Miss Miriam Todd, Miss Ruth Thorburn, Miss Hazel King and Miss Kathleen Carter.

The girls of the Kappa Kappa Alpha sorority have sent out cards for an elaborate tea, to be given on October 22, at the home of Miss Alice Bartlett of Berkeley. A number of the younger girls will here and across the bay, have been invited to share in the afternoon's festivities.

SWALLOWS TEETH TRYING TO COMMIT SUICIDE

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 12.—Jacob Haine, 70 years old, tried for the third consecutive time to end his life. All of the attempts have been frustrated. The first time he tried gas, and then he took the family butcher-knife, but it was not used because of fear.

Eluding the vigilance of his sister-in-law, whom he was visiting, and where he made the three attempts, Haine locked himself in the bathroom and swallowed his false teeth. He was heard choking and the door was broken down, and he was rushed to the hospital. Surgeons, after considerable difficulty, finally removed the teeth from his throat, where they had been lodged.

Financial reverses are given by the family as the cause of his act.

Hoodlum Outlawry at Pleasanton Will Not Be Repeated.

PLEASANTON, Oct. 12.—Precautions are to be taken by the local authorities to prevent the repetition of the outlawry perpetrated last year by hoodlums on Hallowe'en. To that end the board of trustees has authorized the police to appoint deputies to patrol the town on that day.

Two of the trustees admonished the city marshal and night watchman at the last meeting to that the property of citizens must be protected and that a recurrence of the disorders of last year would not be tolerated. Notices posted up warning would be practical letters that if any hoodlum broken the severest punishment permissible will be meted out to the offenders.

PROPERTY OWNERS WILLING.

In most cases where it is proposed to make improvements a big percentage of the larger property owners are found to be against them because they do not want to pay any extra tax.

There is a reversal of this condition in Richmond.

Here the largest property owners are enthusiastically for the harbor bonds. They have studied the proposition and estimated the immense development Richmond will gain by the harbor development. This will mean great profits for everyone. The fact that the larger property owners are for the bonds is making the smaller ones still stronger for them, as the latter know that the Chairman of County Central Committee Looking for "Purse Strings to Pull"

Chairman of the Democratic Central Committee, looking for "purse strings to pull," is reported by John J. McLean, chairman of the Democratic Central committee who thinks his chances for early success may not be bright at present.

McLean, however, has abstained in case the demands from the state committee bed down the national committee. He only reply thus far has been a request from Senator George H. McPike, whose Republican opponent is to be the candidate for the Democratic party by voting for Roosevelt.

In the absence of any campaign funds at all, the county committee has been established on Piedmont avenue near the Key Route station. There much enthusiasm is being evidenced by the leaders in the club, which Edith L. Ormsby and W. Albright are the leaders. Next Tuesday evening, Wilson meeting will be held at which Thomas E. Hayden, a prominent San Francisco attorney, will be the principal speaker.

BERKELEYANS ACTIVE.

The Democrats of Berkeley are not behind in their efforts in behalf of the Democratic candidate. A Woodrow Wilson club for men and another for the women have been organized among the University population. George A. Woods is the leader in the former organization and many members confess to believe that they will capture a large proportion of the Taft strength through his efforts. A club composed of 250 of the University people is engaged in rolling up a vote for Wilson among the University students. A largely attended meeting was held this week at which Senator A. Gamble was the principal speaker.

The first annual meeting of the Chambers of Commerce of the United States will be held in this city during the week beginning January 20, 1913. This was decided upon by the board of directors in Boston last week. Seventeen were present to discuss the affairs of the National Chamber. An unfinished legislation of the Sixty-first Congress affecting business interests was referred to committees for study and report. A referendum on the subject of a national budget was authorized to be immediately submitted to the commercial organizations of the nation.

Participate in the International Congress of Chambers of Commerce. The directors will next meet in St. Louis, Missouri, November 19, to arrange the program of the January meeting.

The third issue of "The Nation's Business," published by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States for the use of editorial writers and officials of commercial organizations will appear October 21, and will furnish a full list of unfinished business legislation of the Sixty-first Congress. It will also deal with the general subject of Porto Rican development, since the administration of the affairs of the Island passed into American hands.

COSTS 10 CENTS TO SEE 'MOVIES'

Moving Picture Houses in Oakland Raise Price of Admission.

Practically all moving picture houses in Alameda county raised their price of admission to ten cents yesterday. This admission fee will remain permanent.

The San Francisco houses will follow suit next week, and proprietors have even placed a cash bond of $200 each as forfeit. The film exchanges are encouraging this advance move by arranging for additional pictures and features.

Hereafter, no five-cent house will be allowed to show more than two reels of pictures. In short, the film companies are expanding their plants and are increasing their prices to the public.

It is conceded that the public are clamoring for high class drama, historical and topical value, and that they have developed critical tastes for natural scenic settings. In other words, the "real thing" must be introduced. The time has passed for the stuffed animals. Now, live and talking pictures are demanded by photographic audiences. Any old stage setting used to do; now, these same settings must be natural scenes in harmony with each particular play. This demand on the part of the public has made it imperative that companies travel to all parts of the world in order to furnish material to meet these exacting requirements.

The Frohmanns, Belasco, Nat Galloway and a host of other noted theatrical managers, are not only entering into the manufacture of films, but are building immense theaters, converting their own into picture theaters, engaging the most celebrated actors to produce plays on the highest plane, and are charging admission on a par with first-class theaters. Verily, it is an evolution in picturism.

Oakland has been the first city in the United States to elevate the standard in photoplays, not only in intelligent selection, but also in classical rendering of appropriate music.

REALTY VALUES ARE CLIMBING

WASHINGTON ST. PROPERTY ADVANCES

Profit of $135,000 Made on Corner Which Is Resold; Deal Large One.

Outside Capital Continues to Find Investment in Oakland Downtown Dist.

The increase of real estate values in the Oakland down-town district affords study full of interest, intensified by frequent re-sales of gilt-edge property at extraordinary advances. One of the most notable transfers of the year took place during the last week in the sale of the northeast corner of Twelfth and Washington streets, 75x65 feet, by Abe S. and Julius Cohn to Durst Brothers, the Wheatland hopgrowers, for $400,000, or $5,333 a front foot.

The profit made by the Cohns and the rapid advance of realty values in Oakland's business section can be readily figured, when it is known that the Cohns purchased 100 feet on Washington by 65 feet on Twelfth street less than a year ago for $375,000. Three months ago they sold 25 feet of this property facing on Washington street, to Durst Bros., for $110,000, and the sale of last week brings the total price, in the re-sale of the entire parcel, to $510,000, the profit being $135,000. In this deal, to Cohn Brothers, W. J. Lawrence obtained a frontage of 50 feet on Twelfth street.

Further significance lies in the fact that the recent transfer has brought more outside capital to Oakland, which will aid in developing the city, and serve as an example to other prospective buyers investigating opportunities here. Upon the removal of the store of Kahn Brothers to their imposing arcade structure next May, the building now occupied by the firm at Twelfth and Washington streets may soon afterwards be replaced by a taller and more modern business building by the owners of the corner.

While the white walls of the new city hall are being rapidly pushed skyward, preparations are being made by the City Council for the erection of a second municipal monument, the city auditorium, which is to be built in Peralta Park, south of Lake Merritt, at a cost of $500,000. One week from tomorrow, bids for piling, excavation and concrete foundation will be received by the City Council. The work is to be completed in 75 days. By that time detailed plans and specifications for the steel work will have been completed, and later bids will be received for this part of the work. The beautiful structure, which will be an important factor in the accommodation of large conventions in this city, is to be completed before September 2, 1913, when it is to be formally opened by the Native Sons and Daughters. Like the Hotel Oakland, located a few blocks away, the auditorium will play an important part in the social and civic life of the southern city and won.

Reports from Los Angeles, where the California Realty Federation has been holding its convention, indicate that the boosters of the Oakland Real Estate Association are making their presence known in the southern city and putting in a good word in behalf of Oakland wherever it will do good. Oakland is represented by a larger delegation than Los Angeles sent to the bay cities on a mission of good will recently, and the seal of the east bay party is attracting commendable notice from realty men of the entire State. Oakland came in for added attention yesterday when its realty men's baseball team played a similar nine of the southern city and won.

Now is the time for all good property owners to come to the aid of the neighborhood made hideous by tall weeds or sidewalk spaces. The City Council has passed a new ordinance requiring the removal of undesirable vegetation between the cement sidewalk and curb and between the sidewalk and property line. Rubbish is also prohibited. The ordinance makes it compulsory for the owner to keep his property tidied up.

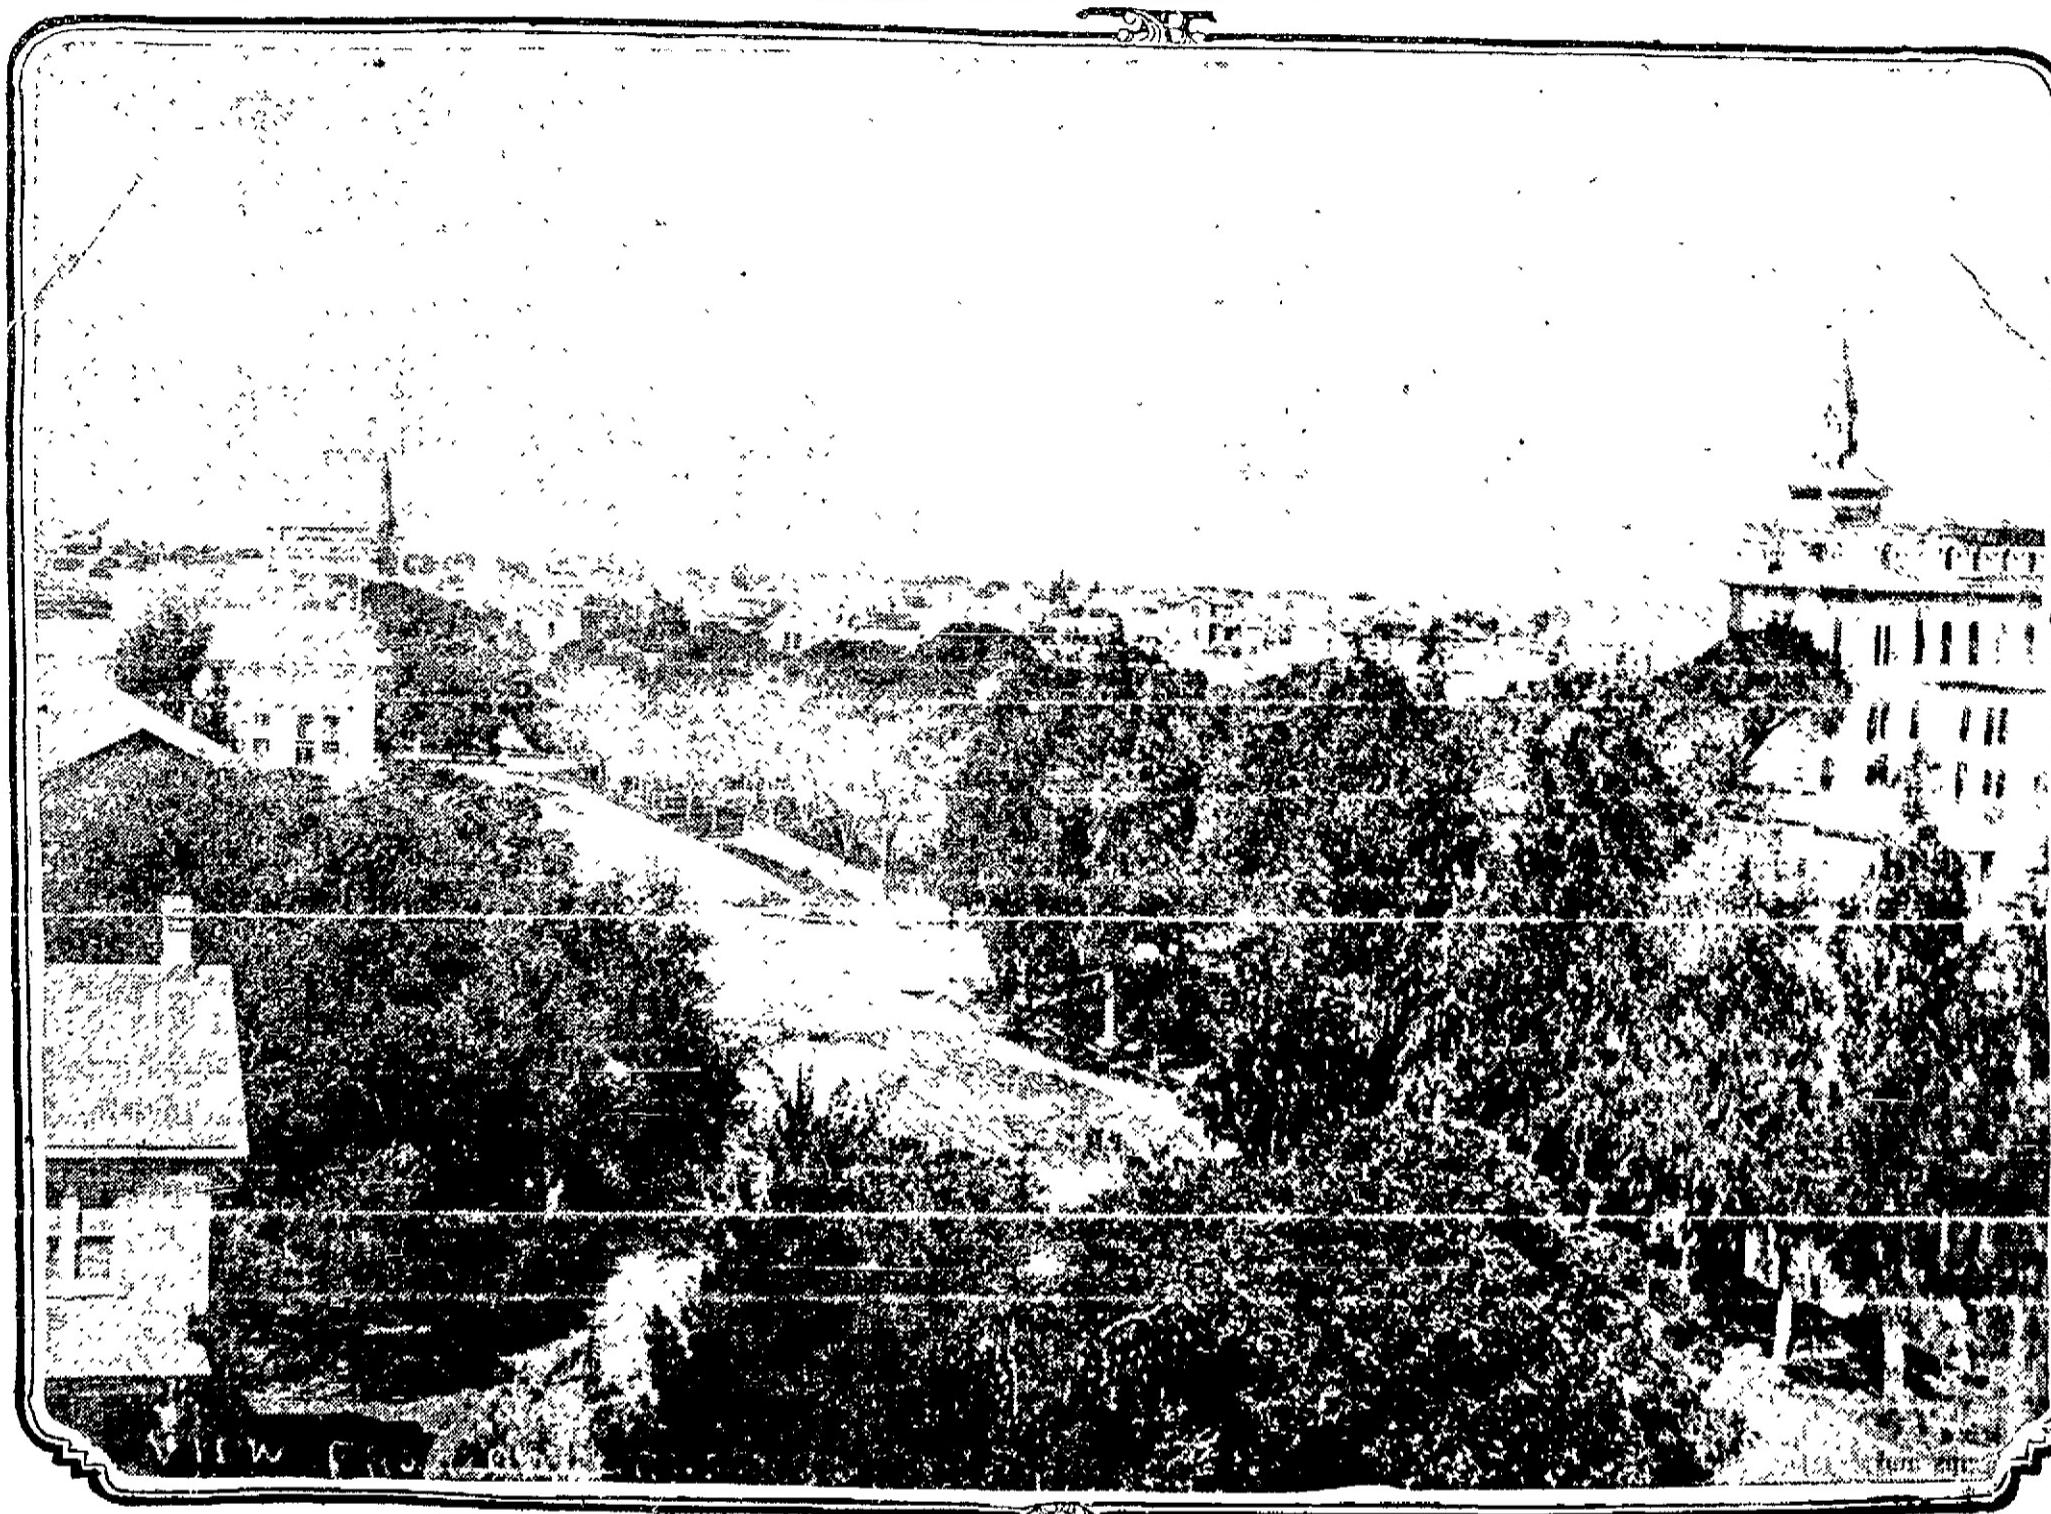

The Oakland Real Estate Association has taken official interest in the new law or its enforcement, but the members are individually favorable toward the removal of unsightly growths or rubbish in heaps. The fire department is deeply interested in the dry wet question, for nothing makes better kindling than these same weeds, which burn like tinder. Such fires are frequently started accidentally and are often difficult to stop, endangering surrounding property.

Oakland is being built up rapidly, but builders should not be too busy to preserve cleanliness and tidiness in the general appearance of the city. It is too early to get in the habit of keeping the sidewalk spaces in the best possible condition, so that the habit will become fixed before the exposition year rolls around. In which case, all the cleaning up will not have to be done in a hurry to make the city presentable in 1915.

The weed ordinance provides that if the property owner does not clear away objectionable vegetation and rubbish, after being notified by the city, the work will be done by the city and charged to the property owner. Absentee owners will not hereafter be able to dodge cleaning up day.

An additional in which real estate men and property owners are interested is the larger number of caskets this year on account of the advertising given the new embankments and the increased pop-

An important sale has just been consummated through the office of George W. Austin, whereby the three-story building known as the Seventh Avenue Apartments, on the northwest corner of Seventh avenue and East Sixteenth street, containing forty-two rooms, has been sold to an outside investor.

The seller is O. M. Bullock. All of the negotiations for both parties were conducted by George J. Lawson of Austin's office.

Austin reports that last week he loaned $20,000 to one man, O. M. Bullock, with which to build ten cottages on Manila and Clifton streets, Claremont, this being the first instalment of forty houses that Bullock intends to build in that district. All the negotiations were conducted by A. V. Long, manager of the loan department of Austin's office.

Bullock inspector to order the removal of partially burned or damaged buildings, following an inspection of the premises. The law will afford protection to the public by enforcing the tearing down of walls and other fire ruins which are a menace to safety. It will also have a deterring effect on the further partitioning of owners and builders who seek to defeat the will of the building inspector, and reconstruct buildings partially destroyed by fire. Some of the buildings in question have been of wood and within the fire limits.

Oakland is the Mecca of thousands of Easterners coming out on colonist rates. When the season ends early this week, it is estimated 60,000 colonists will have been brought to California over the various transcontinental railroads. The number of people leaving the coast east from this city to bring out friends or relatives indicates the amount of travel direct to this city. The Southern Pacific, working in conjunction with the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, has brought more than 600 colonists to the bay region since the season opened. That company has been bringing in three carloads a day and the Western Pacific two carloads since the season began Sept. 23. There is a greater rush the latter part of last week. The Santa Fe is also bringing people in the transportation of their settlers in California. The Bay Ferries are doing the same.

A high record for loaning transactions involving real estate is shown by the documents filed at County Recorder's office during the week ending Thursday evening. Mortgages and deeds of trust amounted to $1,169,902, as compared with $824,429.85 the week previous. The report of County Recorder Bacon follows:

WORLD APPRECIATES OUR CANNED FRUITS

Alameda county's fruit canning industry is being widely advertised through the display notices of the cannery owners in large eastern periodicals and through the publicity work of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce. The products of certain canneries in and near Oakland and Berkeley are known throughout the United States for their wholesomeness and fine flavor. The owners of this relation are expecting increase growth of the industry with the opening of the Panama canal, which will bring the markets of the world within closer reach. FIFTY-SEVEN VARIETIES OF BOOSTERS TAKE CITY BY STORM

Part of the delegation of 57 Oakland real estate brokers and boosters at Los Angeles convention, photographed in front of headquarters in the Hotel Alexandria.

If Los Angelinos ever had any doubt about the boosters' ability of Oakland real estate brokers, that doubt has been dispelled by the demonstrations of the delegation of 57 realty men from this city to the California State Real Estate Federation, which closed in the southern city yesterday. The Los Angeles Tribune says of the visitors: "The visit was the best buy city."

The Oaklanders were largely in evidence throughout the convention, with the home city boosters and the boasting line of conversation about the coming city of the Pacific coast, which is a specialty with the dealers in terra firma. There was plenty of noise of another kind when the Oaklanders played the Los Angeles realty men's baseball team yesterday.

Fifty automobiles, the Catalina band and an army of local realty men were at the Arcadia station this morning to give the glad tidings of welcome to the Oakland and other northern delegates to the convention. All of the delegates were escorted to the Hotel Alexandria and thence to the Los Angeles realty board rooms, where they registered and received cards giving the visitors the freedom of the city and the complimentary enjoyment of the round of entertainments provided. These included the luncheon Thursday at the Jonathan Club and the entertainment at the Orpheum Friday evening and the banquet feast at Hotel Alexandria last night.

The convention was called to order in the ballroom at Hotel Alexandria.

BUILDERS BUSY IN ENCINAL CITY

Permits for Construction Are Issued in Large Numbers.

ALAMEDA Oct. 1.—The building business in Alameda is showing decided improvement. Permits are being issued in increasing numbers. Three leading builders this week took out blocks of permits for several houses each.

Work on the new postoffice still hangs fire, awaiting the receipt of eastern steel. This delay is itself indicative of the generally precarious condition of the country, both steel mills and railroads being to toke with world importance, except in terra firma. The exception rather than the rule.

The Alameda Eagles have rejected all former bids on the new Eagle block and are calling for new bids.

The new Alameda theater will be ready for opening next month.

A small hotel started in November on the fine district of the city.

The city attorney has submitted to the railroads a bill to regulate between the city and the People's Water Company. The city wants the company to lay new mains and extend its service in several sections of the city.

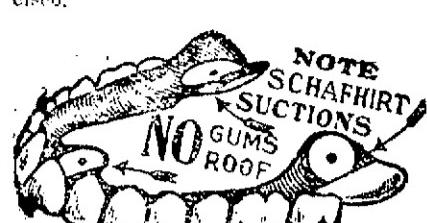

The water company is not one of the first where a large colony of new houses has asked for fire protection and additional water mains.

Permits for new buildings, issued recently, totalled $10,000.

Cupid Transforms "Belle of the Telegraph Key" Into Manufacturers' Bride.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Miss Ann Jeannette Brown, the "belle of the telegraph key," formerly a telegraph operator at the Hotel Astor, dined recently at the Hotel St. Regis, where she received the devoted attention of waiter and hallboy, chambermaid and carriage dispatcher—and of her husband, Dudley C. Wray, president of the Rabob Manufacturing Company of St. Louis.

This remarkable transition—from that of a humble employee in one of New York's large hotels to that of most likely the most important in an office—was brought about in one person—a little, rosy-cheeked fellow who signs his name "D. Cupid."

About six weeks ago an announcement was made of Miss Brown's engagement to Wray. It was a romance of the telegraph keys. Last night saw the happy sequel to the story. The couple were married at the Holy Trinity church, No. 323 East Eighty-Eighth street.

Professor Says It Is the Cause of Indigestion in America.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—Dr. Hugo Eckstein and Dr. Wilhelm His, of Berlin, who are among the 250 famous German physicians now making a tour of the United States, while here expressed their opinions on American desserts. Dr. Eckstein said:

"It has been reported that 75 per cent of all Americans suffer from indigestion, and now I know what causes it, after I have had a plate of ice cream. Bah, it is cold! Nothing more. You eat it by the platterful, and entirely too fast, at that. The temperature of ice cream alone is enough to give one dyspepsia, and I regard it as the bane of America."

Dr. His, medical consultant to several of the courts of Europe, has just received a telegram from the former consul to the Czar of Russia. When he heard his fellow practitioner speak of ice cream, he held:

"The ice cream that is mostly sold in this country is good for nothing. It is not real ice cream, but mostly make believe, the sole virtue of which is that it is cold. I have no doubt that it is the cause of many American ills, and nearly all of your stomach troubles are due to its deleterious influence."

Lut McCarty Defeats Al Kaufman, but Victory Is One That He Cannot Boast About M'CARTY GAINS HOLLOW VICTORY OVER KAUFMAN

Big Californian Long Ago Shot His Bolt and a Rugged Youth Simply Towered Over a Battered Derelict

By BERT LOWRY

WITH the second round but a few moments under way in the main event at the Humboldt's Club's show yesterday afternoon at Coffroth's Eighth street arena, Luther McCarty began a tattoo on the body and jaw of big Al Kaufman and after having knocked the Californian to the mat three times, the Missourian was proclaimed a winner by Jim Griffin at the sign from Captain of Police Shea.

It was simply a case of a great, big strong fellow with little or no knowledge of the right game battering and hammering in such a manner that had long ago spent his usefulness, and one that had forgotten all he ever knew of the game of hit and get away.

With the coming of the two men to the arena and stripping for action the vast difference between the two was plain to be seen, and it was hard to find one man out of ten that gave the California even a slight chance.

McCarty looked big and bushy. The fire of youth was in his eye and his muscles stood out like iron drawings. He was calm, cool and collected and spent the time waiting for Kaufman by jostling those who sat around the ring with his training staff.

Kaufman who came last looked thin and drawn. His jaw was flat, worn in desperate strains and his opponent was too much for him. It was a pity truly to send a man to the slaughter, and today Luther McCarty is deserving of the fame of glory because he managed to knock Al Kaufman to the stones and to have the police stop the fight.

It was simply a dreadnaught against a derelict.

KAUFMAN SLOW AND WEAK.

With the men posing for the picture-shooters it was seen, even that early the Kaufman team, the weaker and more timid, lay except the arena. Then when the men took the center of the ring and began to exchange blows the buzzing began as to just how long the bout would last.

McCarty with the style of a rough-and-tumble fighter more than a boxer, tore after his man and rained many blows to the face, head and body and all of them hurt and paved the way for the long, long fight.

In the return of the arms of Kaufman moved slowly and there was no force behind them. He wasn't the Al Kaufman that fought Sam Berger and whipped him or ever the Al Kaufman that fought Charley Miller. Far from it. The stamina was gone, the eye wasn't clear and the powers to even box were still.

But it made though, to his credit that the star of fight was there and Kaufman was the game Kaufman of old, but that's all.

A volley of rights and lefts to the face and head rocked him and the force of these blows sent him sprawling wide in the ring to the east side and twice it looked as if the field was to be ended then and there in that very first round.

A last mighty stand, though, saved the one-time Hope and he stalled to the song rang. Then he wobbled to his corner, weak of knee and lacking of fighting ability.

More were the murmurs of pity.

FINISH GAME QUICKLY.

Clang! went the gong for the second. Like a scared gazelle the Missourian left his corner and other man arose slowly and lumbered to a fighting position weary and sore.

There was an exchange of blows and Kaufman went to a clinch. It was his only hope for the lighter奢者. Rev. Mr. McCarty, who had been and whipped a solid right to the jaw and to the ropes went the big Californian. Back he came and a rally of blows to the jaw dropped him to one knee. In McCarty's corner he lay.

When Griffin counted to nine he rested and then slowly dragged himself to his feet, only to be sent to the ropes with another volley of blows.

Painfully and slowly the big Californian around the second time and again more as he tried to run and half knocked to the ropes. He managed to get away from those ropes, trying all the time to arise, but the hold had been set and Captain Shea called halt to the fight.

The Kaufman arose to his feet and made a last desperate stand. The will to fight was still there, but nothing else. He was whipped and whipped again and to the ropes went the big Californian. Back he came and a rally of blows to the jaw dropped him to one knee. In McCarty's corner he lay.

Thus did Al Kaufman pass on in oblivion, perhaps never more to don the padded mitts.

And thus did Luther McCarty earn a victory but it had been a hard one that does not proclaim him a champion or man that can yet be called a white hope, for he did not know who he was a wonder by whipping a man whose fighting stock and fighting ability had long been spent.

WHITE OAKS ARE WINNERS.

The White Oaks of Venetia Tigers looked in a baseball game yesterday morning at the Big Nine grandly outside Oklahoma City from the start on the home end a 11 to 2 score. Times, twelfth for the winning aggregation, was in top form, fanning 16 bats of the opposing batters and allowing but 4 hits.

VERNON WINS TWICE FROM ANGELS AND DILLON IS SAD

Oaks Defeat Sacramento in Double-Header and Take Firmer Hold on First Place

HOW CARTOONIST KETTLEWELL OF THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE SEES IMPORTANT EVENTS IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS.

HAPPY HOGAN TRIMS DILLON'S GANG IN BOTH GAMES

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12.—Today was Tiger day at Washington Park, the striped felines from the nearby village coming through with a whiz of a double-header from the Angels that was marked by many features bordering on the spectacular. They grabbed the morning struggle by a 5-to-4 score after a ten-inning battle, and fell on Musser and his supporters in the matinee for a 10-to-4 tally.

Brockenbrough opened the afternoon affair for the Hogans and remained in the game for seven innings, or long enough to be credited with the win. Musser did his best to bring a victory to the Angels, and received credit for some stunts, but to no avail, as the visitors were not to be denied and landed on him in the third and sixth frames for enough hits and runs to win two games of diamond battles.

Their mutual friend was a case of Texan meet Texan, and the loser happened to be Paul Perritt. The scrap ran for full ten frames and was anybody's game until the first of the tenth when Brashaw came through with a hit. Roger Edmondson, the Vernon mound artist, was very stingy with his hits. These two victories clinch the series for Hogan's following and make it five straight for the team.

EDITED BY
J. A. HOULIHAN

MAXWELL BRANCH FIGURES IN BIG DEAL

F. J. Linz and L. W. Sanborn Take Over U. S. Motors Company Line.

One of the biggest changes in the history of the automobile in San Francisco and vicinity took place on October 1, when the entire assets and the capital stock of the United Motor San Francisco Company, a subsidiary of the United States Motor Company, was taken over by Messrs. Fred J. Linz and L. W. Sanborn.

Both Mr. Linz and Mr. Sanborn have been identified with Maxwell automobiles since 1905, which year there were but five Maxwells on the Pacific coast. Now there are upwards of seven thousand.

The success of this car on the Pacific coast is due to Messrs. Linz and Sanborn, who have a reputation of caring for their customers in a manner which has brought them success.

Mr. Linz came to San Francisco from Cleveland in 1900 while Mr. Sanborn is a native son. Both of these men started in business in the early automobile days and are known as pioneers in the industry. During all those years Linz has had under his control the entire territory reaching from Montana to Southern California, and including the Hawaiian Islands. Now that they have acquired the San Francisco branch, they have decided in order to do justice to their many friends and customers in California, to cut down the territory and confine their sales to Northern California. Nevada and the Hawaiian Islands.

BIG LINE FOR 1913.

The Maxwell line for 1913 will consist of a forty horsepower, five passenger touring car, a forty horsepower two passenger roadster, a thirty horsepower five passenger touring car, a thirty horsepower two passenger roadster and a twenty-two horsepower two passenger roadster.

CONGRATULATORY LETTER SENT.

The following letter was sent to Mr. Linz, manager of the United Motor San Francisco by Benjamin Urias, president of the United States Motor Company:

"I am pleased to congratulate both you and Mr. Sanborn upon your joint acquisition of the capital stock of the United Motor San Francisco Company.

"Our long-time association has been of the pleasantest character and such as to indicate a prosperous continuation of the company that you are now purchasing."

"For the past seven years, during your incumbency as manager and Mr. Sanborn as treasurer of the San Francisco branch, it has assumed an important position as a distributor of Maxwell and Columbia cars, so much so that I feel confident the transaction just completed whereby you have acquired this branch will result in even a larger business than you have done in the past; for the line of cars that the company now proposes to give you will, it is believed, be the foremost in their class."

"Very truly yours,

"(Signed) BENJ. BRISCOE"

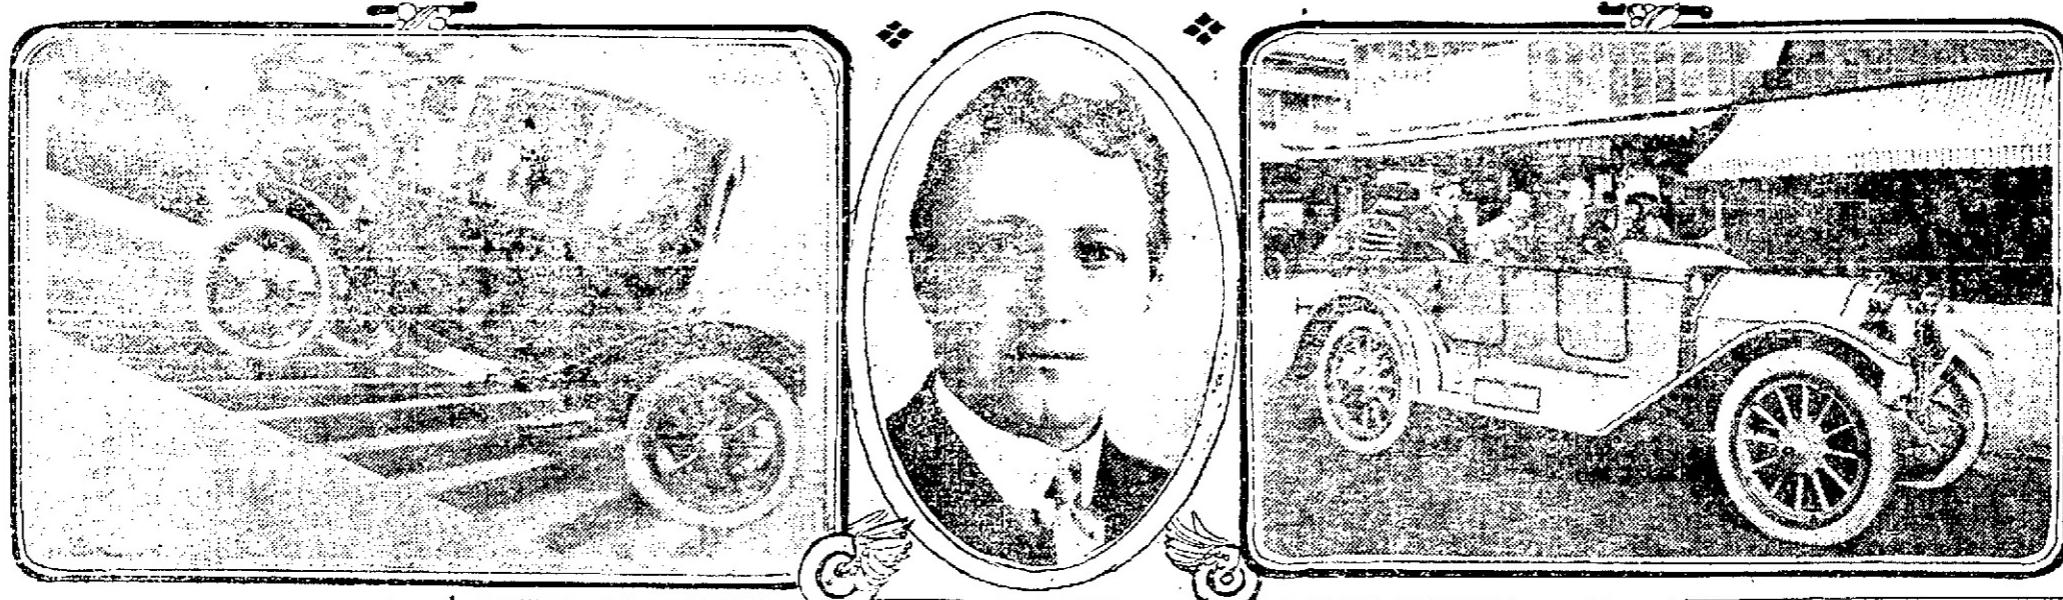

The Maxwell Sales Agency will be under the control of both Linz and his partner and A. C. Hull, who has managed the branch in this city with considerable success, will continue in that capacity.

In San Francisco the complete line of new cars are now being shown. A number of the models are also on display.

CHANSOR AND LYONS INCREASE FORCE

The Chansor & Lyons Motor Supply Company of Portland has another addition to its force in the person of George E. Johnson, formerly a well-known dealer in Seattle, where he was prominently connected with the Chansor & Lyons Company. Johnson is an old San Francisco man, at one time being connected with the Flax Tire and Rubber Company in this city, and his recent change has been of interest to the many people who know him.

NEW MODEL COLE IS EXPECTED SOON

Many Up-to-Date Features in the New 1913 Four-Cylinder.

Announcement has been made by Colonel Bradbury, president of the Pacific Motor Car Company, that the new 1913 model "50" four-cylinder Cole is expected here in a day or two, and great interest among automobile row is being taken in its arrival.

The most noteworthy features of the 1913 Cole, which is known as the series eight, is the production by the factory of a six cylinder car and the adoption of the Delco combined system of electric starting, lighting and ignition. The latter will add to the comfort of owners immensely and places the Cole in the very front ranks of cars using the most modern and approved time and trouble saving devices in the automobile industry.

The Delco electric self-starter has proven, under thousands of tests, its absolute trustworthiness, and Cole users can rest assured that when they wish to start their car the Delco will start it. The electric lighting system is also a boon to motor car owners, as it not only provides illumination for the various head and tail lamps, but in case of need it will furnish ample light for any night repair work that might have to be done.

The lines of the new series are very graceful and the finish of the car is in that thorough manner which bespeaks it at once of Cole quality.

This year there will be put out of the Cole factory three models, known as the "60," a six cylinder; the "50," a four cylinder, and the "40," a four cylinder car, which comprises as fine a line of automobiles as has been turned out by any company in the country.

Speaking of the new car, which is due here in a day or two, Colonel Bradbury said:

"We have had a large number of inquiries regarding the new series eight Cole cars, and many prospective purchasers, as well as former Cole owners, are anxiously awaiting this new car, to see for themselves the many substantial advances made this season. We feel that this is going to be a banner year for the motor car industry, and are only awaiting shipments to get busy ourselves."

"Very truly yours,

"(Signed) BENJ. BRISCOE"

The Maxwell Sales Agency will be under the control of both Linz and his partner and A. C. Hull, who has managed the branch in this city with considerable success, will continue in that capacity.

In San Francisco the complete line of new cars are now being shown. A number of the models are also on display.

BIG AUTO CONCERN HAS REORGANIZED

Kelly Motor Truck Company Increases Capital to Sum of $4,000,000.

Automobile interests in this territory were much interested yesterday when it became known that the Kelly Motor Truck Company had just concluded a reorganization plan which increased its operating capacity from $5,000 to $4,000,000.

It was also announced that the general sales manager for the six reorganized companies would be Charles B. Shanks, well known to the trade from the Atlantic to the Pacific. A short while ago Shanks became a Californian by adoption and during the nearly two years of residence in San Francisco has made a host of friends who will regret that the important recognition and consequent promotion to the position of general director of sales will necessitate his removal to Springfield, Ohio, which is factory headquarters.

The Kelly Company has been identified with the manufacturing of road building and transportation machinery for more than a quarter of a century.

Frank G. Miner, who has been assistant to Shanks in western activities, will be placed in charge of the San Francisco sales branch and service depot. Mr. Miner is a veteran member of the California automobile fraternity and enters upon his new duties with the best wishes of many friends.

This is the first of the two-ton trucks to be turned out by the Reo Company. Heretofore they have turned out a smaller delivery truck, a great number of which are in use on the Pacific Coast.

Norman DeVaux, during his recent visit to the Reo factory, was able to secure one of these trucks for the Pacific Coast. In all its mechanical parts, this truck is in keeping with the simplicity of construction for which the Reo plant is noted.

It is driven by a motor of 4 cylinders, cast in pairs, with 4 inch bore and 1½ inch stroke. The intake valves are of large dimensions and are on top.

The motor control is the same as in the Reo Fifth. It has three speeds forward and a reverse, selective type, gear shifting mechanism entirely enclosed within transmission case. It has center control lever, the bearings are large Tinken roller and Hyatt high duty type.

Transmission case is mounted on sub-frame, directly back of motor.

1913 HUPMOBILE IS ON ITS WAY

New Model Declared to Be a Considerable Advance Over This Year's.

S. G. Chapman, distributor for Hupmobile cars in this territory, has just received advice from the factory that the 1913 models of the Hupmobiles will arrive in this city within a few days, as they are now en route for San Francisco. This will be welcome news along automobile row, as owners and dealers have been looking forward to the arrival of this well-known car, which has made such a favorable impression among Eastern motorists.

In speaking of the new 1913 Hupmobile, Chapman said:

"When I was East recently I had a good opportunity to inspect the new model, and, though I was sure I would find a car that in every way equaled the 1912 product of the Hupmobile factory, I was delighted to find that the new models are not only up to last year's standards, but considerably advanced."

The increased facilities of the new factory have resulted in a greater saving in production costs, and the new models are provided with many additional refinements and improvements.

The Hupmobile line includes a large, roomy touring car, and a two-passenger roadster, and its construction marks a new departure in the making of low-priced motor cars."

ONE-LEGGED PIGEON GOOD AS ANY CLOCK

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 12.—"Plato" is the name of a one-legged pigeon, who lives among the high loop buildings, and who can tell the time of day and the day of the week. Miss Emma Bentz, a stenographer, vouches for this. She says: "He has only one leg and can't fly, but he walks with the others. So every day, at exactly 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, it comes to the sixth story window and waits for its meal. It is never late—never too early, always exactly on the hour, with the exception to this rule, and this is how I know it can tell the time, is on Saturday. I feed it but it knows I have a half holiday on Saturdays, so every Saturday it comes at 11:45, never late, never early, always exactly on the minute."

AMENDMENT NO. 6 IS SHOWN UP BY ANALYSIS

DR. E. J. THORNE TELLS OF JOKERS

Viciousness of Every Line and Paragraph Is Disclosed.

How Two Cities Would Be Enabled to Control the Legislature.

Analyzed and dissected until the viciousness of every line and paragraph is exposed so that he who runs may read, constitutional amendment No. 6 on the ballot (the consolidation measure) is made the subject of a remarkable report by Dr. Elwood J. Thorne of Pasadena.

Dr. Thorne is chairman of a committee appointed by cities outside of Los Angeles to report on this amendment as an expert in municipal affairs. The report is now being circulated all over Southern California and will undoubtedly influence public opinion very largely.

In the report, the amendment is paragraphed to facilitate analysis and understanding and then each paragraph is discussed as follows:

BY DR. ELWOOD J. THORNE.

Paragraph 1—Is too general in verbiage and therefore in application except in one point that of aggregate population required. This is the only specific provision which would limit benefits to just two cities in the state. It allowed to move forward under this plan, these two cities, after this winter, could control the state legislature and, of course through it, the general laws controlling. This paragraph should be changed to read, about as follows:

General laws may provide for the merging and consolidating of the government of two or more contiguous cities or of a city and the county in which it is situated, or any contiguous parts of two or more counties. Provided such proposed consolidated area shall contain an aggregate population of not less than 150,000, into one consolidated city and county government.

Paragraph 2—The majority should be raised to two-thirds, to prevent a minority of voters controlling the whole. For a simple majority of votes usually cast on any question is always a small minority of the registered vote of the community. To see its real meaning as it now stands, make a positive statement instead of a negative one thus: All cities and towns except those within the limits of proposed and consolidated areas shall be taken in by the consent of a small minority of its registered voters. But if such a small minority of any one of these cities shall fail to vote in favor thereof, such city shall be completely surrounded and forever shut in by the new consolidated government. This paragraph should read at least as definitely and fairly as per following:

No city or town or county, or part of any city or town or county, shall become a part of such city and county unless a two-thirds majority of the qualified voters of such city or town or county, or part of such city or town or county, voting thereon, it a general or special election, shall approve of such consolidation.

UNION PROVISION.

Paragraph 3 is perhaps the most unfair of all as by its provisions, if adopted November 6, it would informed one city alone, in this state, of the new consolidated government by its own city, which could take advantage of it and that city, having a large majority of the voters of the county within its limits, could propose and vote through a consolidated area whose boundary lines could take in the best parts of Pomona, Monrovia, Pasadena, South Pasadena, Long Beach, including the latter's harbor and beach improvements, as well as the best parts of the county at large, including other towns and cities, high schools etc. The majority is again too small and should be at least a two-thirds majority of the voters of the county included in the new consolidated area.

The two-thirds consent of the excluded area should be necessary before a division. The paragraph should read about as follows:

Any city or town or county may be divided by the boundary lines of such proposed consolidated city and county area if a two-thirds majority of the qualified voters of the part of such city or town or county excluded from such consolidation voting thereon at a general or special election should vote in favor of such division.

Paragraph 4—Pledged.

Paragraph 5 is fair down to the word "determined by law." From the provisions on the uses of the property of the divided county are manifestly unfair to the excluded area and should be changed to read, as below, and we think also that the strictest provision indicated for the time within which such division of property must be made is necessary for the protection of both areas. Note below:

Such new consolidated city and county shall be liable to a just proportion of the existing debts and liabilities of the county or counties included in which, in part, such new consolidated city and county shall be created for the proportionate share of the property of such county or counties, and until such proportion is determined by law, such consolidated city and county together with excluded areas of such county or counties shall be entitled to the common use of any property of such county or counties as it stands previous to the division.

at which the consolidation was effectuated.

Provided, however, that the just division of the property of such county or counties, shall be determined and made by law within . . . days after the general or special election by which such new consolidated government is adopted.

BAD PARAGRAPH.

Paragraph 7—is bad at the very start. Its badness is evident in the first part of the first sentence that we are loath to spend time upon it. This wording saddles all claims already due as well as those which may accrue under valid, general or annual contracts and expenditures, except those provided for by law and which may be outstanding against the various municipalities at the time of consolidation, upon cutting districts which have no voice in or benefit from the expenditure of the money or use of the property involved. To pay these claims, the whole consolidated area should have to be taxed. This paragraph could be easily made perfectly fair by changing to read, about as follows:

General laws also provide for the payment of all debts, liabilities and outstanding bonds of all municipal corporations engaged in the new consolidated government by the voters of the qualified voters voting thereon at a general or special election held directly upon the consolidation.

Provided further that all debts and liabilities and standing bonds of said municipal corporation existing at the time of the exercise of such authority or shall be fully provided for as per paragraph No. 7 of this amendment.

(b) The place for holding the sessions of the superior and inferior courts exercising jurisdiction therein.

(c) A commission form of government.

(d) The initiative.

(e) The referendum.

(f) Civil service.

(g) Franchises—the granting and terms of.

(h) The method of making amendments to the charter itself.

SHOULD BE DEFEATED.

In conclusion, gentlemen, we wish to say that this criticism is not, in any sense, a legal opinion, but deals with the matter almost entirely from the ordinary voter's standpoint. Only in one instance, the reference to the election on freeholders charter, do we directly touch upon legal opinion. We think in this we are right, but the truth is, leaving this out, there is no sufficient left which is bad to forever condemn the amendment.

We unhesitatingly say that the amendment in the form proposed for adoption November 6 should be buried beyond all hope of resurrection. Not alone by the voters of the outlying cities and county but by the voters of the larger cities as well. For no community, even so much in danger and in terrible dependence, as when succeeding administrations have to face the local but selfish unfair or vicious provisions and enactments of its own people in the past. In two years we can frame and adopt an amendment, fair to all, and therefore sufficiently American in spirit to commend itself to all our citizens. Two years is a very short time to wait for a good law. All eternity is none too long a time to put off, had one.

BOROUGH SYSTEM.

Such a charter shall also provide specifically for:

(a) A borough system of government by which the different municipalities so uniting for general purposes shall nevertheless retain and exercise such special municipal powers as the charter shall provide.

Provided that any such municipal corporation possessing the right to such borough government may waive that right by a two-thirds majority of the qualified voters voting thereon at a general or special election held directly upon the consolidation.

Provided further that all debts and liabilities and standing bonds of said municipal corporation existing at the time of the exercise of such authority or shall be fully provided for as per paragraph No. 7 of this amendment.

(b) The place for holding the sessions of the superior and inferior courts exercising jurisdiction therein.

(c) A commission form of government.

(d) The initiative.

(e) The referendum.

(f) Civil service.

(g) Franchises—the granting and terms of.

(h) The method of making amendments to the charter itself.

SHOULD BE DEFENDED.

In conclusion, gentlemen, we wish to say that this criticism is not, in any sense, a legal opinion, but deals with the matter almost entirely from the ordinary voter's standpoint. THE SMARTEST FASHIONS of WELL-DRESSED FOLK

THE FAIR

LEANOR DEAR:

You will understand why you did not receive a letter from me last week, when I tell you that I have been overwhelmed with eleventh-hour preparations for our church fair.

It was a splendid success, and quite repaid us all for the trouble and work that attends such enterprises.

We had a large crowd, and had charge of the fancy table. That, you know, is one of the most important parts of a fair, and it always commands popularity to the candy table—and, you can depend upon it, ours was as popular as the booth where sweets were sold, and we made more money.

Of course, we strove to make the display of our wares different from those used in most church fairs, and I can safely say we succeeded.

Everything was made of lace or of some real, practical use, for we confined ourselves to lace and embroidery collars, doilies, centerpieces, scarfs and knitted things for baby.

We had the very latest cry in art needlework: broad decorative collars embroidered on fine linen, and edged with triple lace. Other articles of silk with lace, jaquard, faille, and under the plain lace, and side-tails of all kinds, decorated with lace draw-work or stitching of beautiful design.

Unfortunately, the evening was foggy, with rain threatening every minute, making it impossible for the women to wear their "bestest" gowns; but there was a number of exceedingly stylish new coat suits' and three-piece costumes that reflected the latest up-to-date fashions.

One particularly stunning suit was of blue-gray cloth, made on modified director's lines, with a smart little entwined coat, which showed the Robespierre collar, narrow vest and cuff trimmings of red velvet.

The vest, fastened with small buttons, and the coat with one large button, the left side near the back, forming the faintest suggestion of a plainer dress.

The hat worn with this costume was of gray felt, turned up in front and faced with scarlet velvet. It was trimmed with a high black aigrette.

One particularly trim costume was a three-piece suit of violet chamois, made with modified pants and draped lines. The coat had the fashionable long sleeves and a high collar of black velvet.

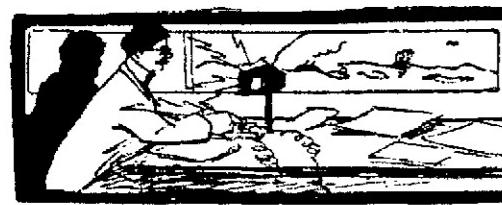

Her hat was a more becoming shape, with a round, rather low crown covered with oriental silk, and having the narrow brim covered with pleated tissue.

I wore a large green grape patterned out on one-piece lines, with long sleeves and a vest and Robespierre collar of white ottoman silk. A full lace outlined the robe.

I notice that everyone and their sister seems to like lace, and so be off to the fair. You must have one of the old-fashioned lace collars, and so be off to the fair.

With love, and many thanks awaiting my attention.

With love,
MADGE

FRANCE TAKES WAR IN AIR SERIOUSLY

Cavalry to Have Own Aeroplanes as Well as Machine Guns.

Juvenile Crime Increasing at Alarming Rate Throughout Republic.

PARIS, Oct. 12.—The art of aerial warfare has advanced to such a state that army aeroplanes will now have to be divided into different classes, in the same way as are naval vessels, in the opinion of the heads of the French Army Aviation Corps. Light and mobile aeroplanes easily taken to pieces and transported in wagons which could go anywhere like ammunition wagons will have to be attached to the front to act as eyes of the army. Jutins, the cavalry general, has his own machine guns, so it will in future have its own aeroplanes. In the rear of the army the heavy armored aeroplanes with high-power motors will be installed in aviation camps. These machines will be the battleships of the air, just as the first line aeroplanes will be the destroyers.

Based on his observations on the performances of the two dirigibles which took part in the recent French maneuvers, General Pernot, chief of staff, concludes that the dirigible in its present form is antiquated and useless. The alleged mobility of the portable balloon-sheds, he declares to be myth. A dirigible requires 320 men to handle it, while three squadrons of aeroplanes need only 250.

The swiftness of the two dirigibles employed at the recent maneuvers took more than ten hours to reconnoiter a radius of 250 miles, while the best road biplanes took only two hours and a half to scout a radius of 130 miles and other aeroplanes three hours five minutes to travel about 2000 miles.

Counting from the day of departure for the maneuvers, the thirty-six army airmen who had no accident of any kind, out of a total number of fifty-nine engaged in the operations, flew about 22,820 miles altogether. The remaining fifteen, who broke down aggregated 243 miles. Adding the 284 miles flown by the eight aeroplanes of the service, the total distance flown by the aeroplanes engaged in the maneuvers amounted to 27,528 miles.

WILL VIOLATE TRADITION.

A hitherto inviolable tradition in connection with the election of an "immortal" or member of the French Academy will be violated in the case of General Lyautey, the successor of Henri Lyautey, who, according to the custom at the head of the French army in Morocco, he will not be able to call formally on the other thirty-nine members of the academy before his election on October 21.

Of the three candidates for the seat left vacant, two have formally withdrawn, leaving General Lyautey as the sole candidate. That eminent soldier, inevitable election is a matter of popular rejoicing, since recent deaths in Morocco have made him a real hero.

In connection with the election somebody has unearthed from the constitution of the academy a legally enacted article which expressly forbids solicitation of votes for election, the purpose, naturally, of the thirty-nine visits. Older academicians say that the discovery of the "curious" article will render the delects for them, as the calls of distinguished seekers after one of France's highest honors have been always oligarchical.

JUVENILE CRIME INCREASES.

Juvenile crime is increasing in an alarming way in France, according to the recently published statistics of the courts of justice for 1910.

Some 35 per cent of all persons accused of crime are minors. A similar tendency has been observed in England and Germany, and the question is re-awakening the serious thought of criminologists.

The second revelation of the tables is the remarkable preponderance of half-educated people among criminals as compared with well-educated and altogether uneducated ones. The well or fairly well educated contribute about half as many crimes as do the totally illiterate, but it is from the class of meagerly educated that all but a trifling number of misdeeds spring.

At present not far from half a million minors brought before the lowest police courts in a year. It appears that criminality of a serious character has shown practically no change for the past two years.

Crimes against property have decreased notably in number, the result, it is said, of the exceptional severity with which such matters are treated not only by judges but by juries.

The same can scarcely be said for crimes of violence against persons. French juries, particularly being all too ready to wax sentimental over the nature of passion, temptation, and so on, invariably put forward by accused persons.

LOVE FOR AGED.

Seniors have again demonstrated their love for the aged by the lively interest they have taken in the personalities of the five men to whom the Emperor of Russia presented medals at the centenary of the battle of Smolensk in September. Every one of the recipients was an elderly man, ranging from the old soldier being 122 years of age.

It was the same story some years ago when monuments were erected on the battlefield of Waterloo, although in that case few of the veterans were a hundred years old.

In Paris itself the discovery of a man or woman who is a hundred years old adds irresistibly to the organization of seats of festivity in honor of old age. Every item about the aged person's habits is counted as of the utmost interest. Does he smoke a cigarette? Does he drink white wine or red? Are vegetables his diet, and does he eat them raw? Is he toothless?

The statistician of the city show that within the walls are no less than fifteen people who have passed their hundredth birthday and forty-eight who will soon be one hundred years more. There are also three who are 102, while of course there are many more.

There is no better evidence of the popularity of the old than the fact that a veritable cult is gathered around them.

OFFICERS PREVENT TYPHOID.

SARRENTRE, Oct. 12. Thomas Savage, superintendent of an electric power company here says there is an easy way to avoid catching typhoid fever from eating oysters.

"It is necessary, he says, to take care when buying oysters that they are always given us a fresh rest."

CLASS DISTINCTION RESULTS IN QUARREL

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

BERLIN, Oct. 12.—The very latest photograph of Emperor William in the most of his family still further emphasizes the unhappy fact that the Kaiser and Crown Prince William are estranged and add graphic strength to the report that the head of the Hohenzollerns is "at odds" with his eldest son and both that he practically ignores him. Here two strong will clash; the older man imperious but polite, the younger man democratic but fierce.

Crown Prince is absent. In the picture are two sons of the Crown Prince, to whom the Emperor is devotedly attached, and Prince Adelbert, the Kaiser's third son German's "Sailor Prince," who, while he has sometimes annoyed the Emperor by his escapades, has never dared to make openly the desire of his father and son.

The truth is that Emperor has never forgotten the poor, simple life that exists among some in the Reichstag, which will shortly become historical, when the Kaiser has again imposed his father's foreign policy. HOME RULE DISRUPTING FAMILIES

Earl Has to Dismiss Retainers With Overmuch Ulster Tendencies.

George Will Deal Regal Death to Peasants on His Big Estates.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

(By CHESTER OVERTON.)

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The disputes, the acrid arguments, the intense personal feeling excited by the government's earnest purpose to give home rule to Ireland has disrupted several English homes.

One household so divided is that of the Earl of Granard, who married Miss Beatrice, daughter of the Earl of Newmarket.

Lord Granard will be a devout Catholic peer and an ardent home ruler, has dismissed from his estate, Castle Forbes, those of his employees who are Protestants.

One is Mr. S. S. a gardener, a man capable, notwithstanding his argumentative, Lady Granard, who is very fond of flowers, was loath to part with the gardener, but he had to go.

The dismissal of the gardener was hastened by the Duke of Devonshire, son of Granard. She was a sister of the late Lord Petrie and a member of one of the ancient and powerful Catholic families in England. Lord Granard in a speech of melancholy, gave the gardener a place but a strong factional feeling has been aroused.

TO HONOR HOSTESSES.

King George is to honor two American hostesses with visits. Cora, Countess of Stratford, formerly Mrs. Colgate, and her husband, the Hon. Evelyn P. Kennedy, will entertain the king for a day during his shooting at Hopington. A great battle is expected as no one on the estate has been allowed to fire a gun since the first of the month.

Earl Stratford was much liked by the late King Edward and although King George is not on such intimate terms, he has a great admiration for Mr. Kennedy, who is a fine sportsman and for his character.

The immense house belonging to Lord Cholmondeley and is rented by Mrs. Ralph Vivian, also an American who sublets it to Lady Stratford.

The king will likely spend the day at Hopington, but after the Newmarket races he will make a visit of several days to the Hon. Mrs. John Ward, daughter of Whitehall Reid at Chilton, which has the most beautiful shoot in Berkshire. Chilton was acquired a year ago by Reid for his daughter, who has made it a most luxurious place.

REID'S FRIENDS SURPRISED.

Friends of Reid here are rather surprised at the prominence given to an interview he gave to a newspaper reporter who stated that he was considering returning to his own country to live. His friends here have known for several months that he will sever his official connection in London next March, but he has no intention of living all the year round in America. The Reids will pay annual summer visits to their daughter here and will also have a London home.

The town is gradually filling up and some of the permanent American hostesses are already settled down for the winter. The Duchess of Marlborough will remain her attractive state dinner guest Sunday evenings, while Lady Elton last week with her delicate son, Lord Ivor Spencer Churchill, who has joined his brother, the Marquess of Blandford, at this famous school.

Mrs. Astor's residence, like the Duchess's, is to be reoccupied by her husband under gentle pressure brought from the king and queen, but the duchess' friends declare that a reconciliation is impossible.

WILL BE MISSED.

Mrs. John Jacob Astor will be greatly missed here as she will be on the other side all winter.

Lady Naylor Leyland, who was Miss Chamberlain and who has been in Austria, will reopen her Hyde Park apartment in the fall. She is expected to entertain her son, her son, Vincent, who comes of age next year.

Mrs. David Beatty is now installed at her new home in Regent's Park. She and her husband, the admiral, dined twice with the king and queen at Ballinalacken last week.

Mrs. William Leeds will remain in town with her small son until just before Christmas, when she sets off for New York. Her friend, Mrs. Ragsdale, is expected to spend more time in Belgrave Square than in Ireland.

Lady Waterloo, who was Miss Hamilton of San Francisco, is getting married again at the beginning of the year. She will open her villa at Cannes early in the new year. Princess Louise of Argyle is expected to pay a visit here.

TITLED AMERICAN WOMEN ARE LINKED

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

By EDDY.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Those two charming Americans, the Duchess of Roxburghe and Lady Alastair Innes-Ker are almost inseparable nowadays. They married brothers and their close friendship is regarded as the more remarkable because Lord Alastair Innes-Ker, a captain in the royal horse guards, is heir presumptive to the dukedom of Roxburghe. Besides, his wife, who was Alice, Baroness of New York, has proved herself a good mother for years past. So the ancient British family is in no danger of extinction.

So far from being jealous of this boy, he seems to treat the childless duchess closer to Lady Alastair. Indeed, if it were possible, it was said that she has transferred to her little nephew all her affections. After nine years of married life, Lady Alastair Innes-Ker, a widow of New York, and who inherited a fortune from her father, Ogden Goelet, has not blessed her lord with a child. It is difficult for those in America to understand the intense disappointment of an English nobleman who has given up hope that his little would descend directly.

TOUCH OF FATALISM.

A touch of fatalism and romance is given to the Slant in the Roxburghe ship by the fact that it was the Duchess herself who chose for Lord Alastair's bride the now happy mother who may succeed her as Duchess. The

WITH THOSE PROMINENT ABROAD

LORD INVERCLYDE

ABOUT THEM

Lord Inverclyde, who rents a part of the Duke of Argyll's famous grouse moors in England, has been having some good sport there recently. Lord Inverclyde, who is in residence at Inverclyde, his fine place near Cove, Dumfriesshire, for the season, is lord lieutenant of County Dumfriesshire and is a very keen game shot. The first Lord Inverclyde was the founder of the Cunard line of steamers. The present peer has one son and two pretty daughters named Emily and Muriel respectively.

Here's a characteristic snapshot of the Duke of Grafton, who met with another accident last week, cutting off a finger of the left thumb during a visit to Lord Lothian at Blundeling Hall, Norfolk. It will be remembered that the duke, whose age is now 91, met with a nasty accident on the ice last winter.

This year society, both at home and abroad, has decided that Venice is the one place in which to spend September. Among those who are making Venice their goal for this month are Lady Helen Vincent, Miss Muriel Wilson, Lord and Lady Anglesey, Lady Churnard, Mrs. J. S. Astor and her son, Vincent, and Antonio D'Addio.

The illustration is from a photograph showing the two well-known actresses, Mlle. Eleonora Duse and Mme. Rejane.

Lord Bailey is the wife of the celebrated financier, Sir Abe Bailey, to whom she was married last autumn. Lady Bailey is the daughter of Lord Rosemore, whose "Things I Can Tell" is one of the books of the autumn season.

Miss Doris Stocker is one of the pretty gipsy dancers in "Gipsy Queen" at Daly's Theater, whose popularity with the portrait-photographer is as continuous as it is deserved.

REPRESSED HIS ADVANCES; HER ARREST FOLLOWS

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Annie Van Koert of 6087 Ridge avenue, charged in Municipal Judge Robinson's court that her former employer, Michael G. McGee, a grocer of 716 North Clark street, had caused her arrest October 8, 1911, because she repelled his advances. Miss Van Koert is suing McGee for $10,000 for malicious persecution. She was arrested on a charge of larceny. McGee alleged that while employed as his cashier she withheld some of his money. The case against Miss Van Koert was dismissed by Judge Caverly.

Duchess introduced the young couple and carried on a vigorous, but unobtrusive and diplomatic campaign as matchmaker. To her belongs the credit for the union. She sang Lord Alastair's praises to her friends; she brought them together at every opportunity. Propriety, mutual admiration, similar tastes did the rest.

The friendship between the two Americans born women is even more extraordinary because the Duchess of Roxburghe rather holds aloof from social activities, while Lady Alastair Innes-Ker seems to be the happiest when she is a guest at a great party or brilliant dinner.

She is the daughter of the late William L. Breeze. Her mother, many years a widow, married Harry Higgins, a sailing opera. Lady Alastair's sister, Edna Breeze, made one of the greatest "catches" in England when she married Lord Willoughby de Eresbury.

Despite her retiring nature the Duchess of Roxburghe is an immense favorite of Queen Mary, whose hostess she is soon to be, and whose disposition is not unlike her own. And on occasion, the Duchess becomes the most gracious and delightful hostess. King Edward was her husband's guest at the ancestral seat of the Innes-Ker family castle.

"Never have I enjoyed myself more," said the King on departing.

BRITISH MEDALS TO GO ON SALE

Government May Be Called on to Save Valuable Collection.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

London, Oct. 12.—A remarkable collection of nearly 3000 medals won by officers and men in the various wars of British history is to be sold in the near future unless it is saved for the nation.

It is proposed that the bachelor professors and the male students turn over their torn clothing and their socks in need of darns to the bureau, which will attend public subscription.

The collection has been acquired during the last thirty years by Dr. A. F. of Sheffield, and is now housed in the Museum art gallery in that city. Over five hundred of the medals were awarded to officers of all ranks, and many were won by members of the press, some of whom belonged to the House of Commons. Every regiment present at Waterloo is represented as are also the German Legion and the Hanoverian and Brunswick Armies.

TEACHERS GIVE DEFIANCE TO FRANCE

Orders to Stop Anti-Military Parade Is Ignored by Union.

Court's Aid Will Be Asked In Effort to Declare It Illegal.

PARIS Oct. 7.—The policy of refusing the rights of association to government officials which was started two years ago by Aristide Briand in his iron-handed struggle with the railway workers' unions, has resulted in another epoch making the fight between the Poincaré ministry and the school teachers' unions. The issues at stake are of world-wide interest.

The dispute was brought to a head a month ago when the teachers at a congress held at Chambery, expressed anti-militarist sympathies. This led the government to issue a peremptory order for the immediate dissolution of the teachers' unions.

The majority of the unions obeyed the decree, but several adapted methods of procrastination and postponed a decision. Prominent among these is the Seine union, comprising the Paris teachers, who openly defy the government and say they are prepared to take the consequences.

What these consequences will be the law courts will decide, for the government has begun legal proceedings against the recalcitrant teachers under the law of 1884, which enacts that the objects of professional unions shall be exclusively "study and defense of the economic, industrial, commercial, and agricultural interests."

However the courts may decide, it is certain that the question will furnish exciting debates when parliament reassembles.

BRIAND SINGLE HANDED.

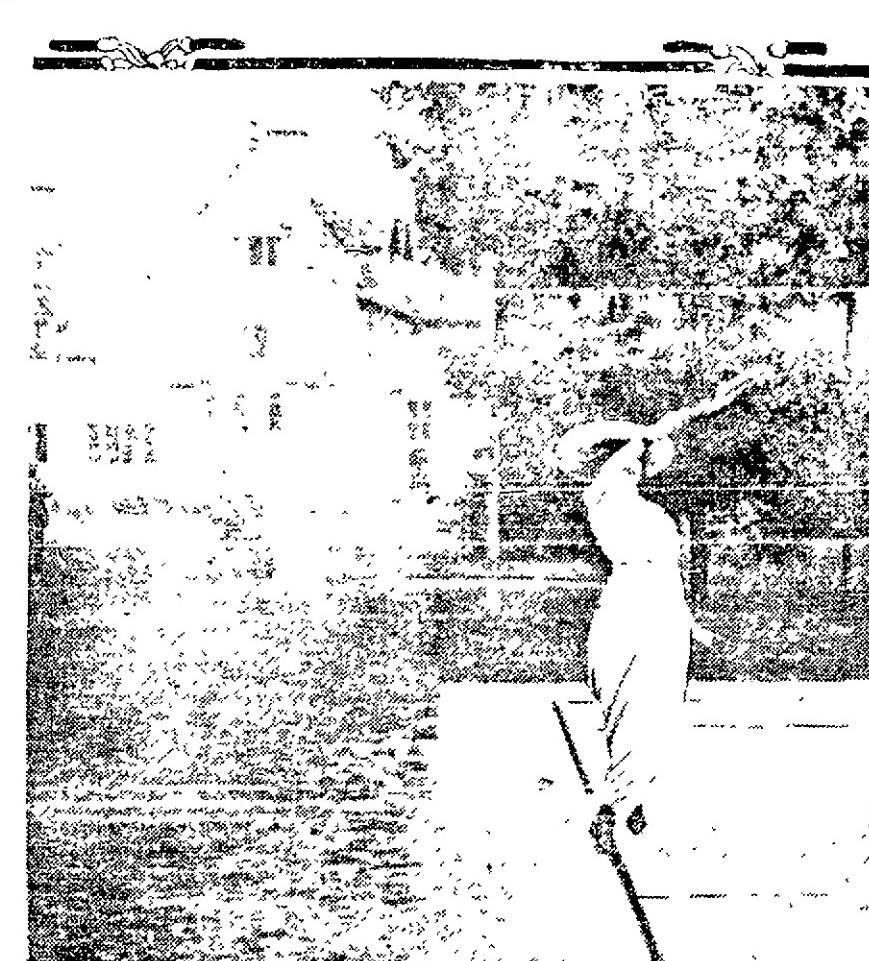

In his efforts to deprive the rail-way men of the right of association M. Briand entered the lists practically single handed, and in order to submit a government measure in this sense he had to reconstruct his cabinet. But he failed in the end to push through his much discussed anti-syndicalist bill.

The same principle of allowing government officials to form unions is involved in the present dispute with the teachers. The Poincaré ministry seems actuated in its determination to break up the existing unions. The only point which seems of opinion in the cabinet is whether the unions will be allowed to reorganize on a legal basis.

SCHOOL SYSTEM OF ENGLAND IS CRITICIZED

LONDON Oct. 12.—The British youth has been much chastised recently for his own good. His critics are of his own household. A writer in the editorial page of the Daily Mail has sacrificed his public schools and universities. "Swain" and "Shakespeare" were destined to be the distinguishing characteristics of both. A much-discussed article in an English review added preparatory schools to the list and carefully demonstrated how all three combined to turn out a nice fellow who had learned nothing useful and unless he found himself quickly after his university career was only fit to become a general in the army or a country house, laird or duke.

The Duke of Angle, who is an Etonian and a Trinity college Cambridge man, now joins the critics. The Duke points out that in foreign universities, such as Berlin and Paris, men assemble for real study in stern preparation for the hard work of life, but in Oxford and Cambridge students go less for study than for socializing, half farce on railway, long holidays and other adventures.

EFFORTS ARE FRANTIC.

M. Guizot is now making frantic efforts to show that these concessions are not part of the present agitation, but were decided on months ago. The teachers, however, point out that the proposed increased expenditure of $5,000,000 is exactly the amount demanded at the chemists' congress. This amount, added to the $7,400,000 increase of the postal employees' pay roll, gives one an idea of the meager salaries of government officials, while the government itself is determined and goes increasing war on the unions.

Confederate Generale du Travail. The secret energetic support to the movement at the annual congress decided to continue in all its violence campaign against the policy of the confederates in backing capital.

A well-determined body of labor leaders issued an abandonment of the strike strikes, urging that every new revolutionary method be adopted in the case of the railway, seamens' and miners' strikes, capital, with the government's support, had gained the upper hand. The pincers fell on deaf ears, the congress deciding by a large majority to continue to wage war on capital and government as of old.

LAPLANDERS THINK AMERICANS 'NIBBY'

Curious Tourists Who Investigate Native Domiciles Arouse Ire.

STOCKHOLM Oct. 12.—The Laplanders are peevish over the inquisitive behavior of American and other tourists who visit their country. Accordingly, a notice, in several languages, has been posted in the districts most frequented by travelers, as follows:

"What would you say if an unknown individual, without asking your permission, or even knocking at your door, pushed his way into your home, and, without a word, everything, rummaged everywhere, looked at your arrangements, and asked you what you have, wished to know about your love affairs, and asked hold of your children to photograph them?"

"What would you do with such an intruder?"

"But there are certain tourists who treat the Laplanders in this fashion. They never their tents without embarking, handle or point at everything, ridges, everything, and ask the Laplanders how many reindeer they have. They are the same as asking people for details of their incomes."

"The Laplanders are human beings."

PARIS WEDDING FOR GERTRUDE ROTHSCHILD

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

PARIS, Oct. 12.—On October 26 in the Temple of the Rue de la Victoire, the marriage of Miss Gertrude Rothschild, daughter of Mr. V. Henry Rothschild and of the late V. Henry Rothschild of New York, with Senator Enrique Palets de Bona, Argentine consul general to Belgium, will take place. The ceremony will be performed by Grand Rabbi Alfred Levy. The bride-elect is a sister of Mrs. Ira Nissim, widow of Chicago and New York financier.

Miss Morris, who lives for the greater part of the year in her villa on Lake Geneva, has come to Paris to help select the trousseau and otherwise prepare for the wedding. The bride and her sister are excellent linguists, having received their education here and in Berlin. Miss Rothschild's fiance is a native of Argentina, where his father was manager of the National Bank of that country.

KILLED WINNING A DARE.

CHICAGO Oct. 12.—John Donigan, 7 years old, was killed on the South Side as the result of winning a dare from a party of schoolboys. The boys were racing a street and dared each other to stand longest in the path of a large automobile truck. Donigan stayed too long.

MONTREAL Oct. 12.—Montreal, the most congested city on the continent, crowded between Mount Royal and the St. Lawrence River—soon will draw a long breath as a result of a gigantic operation of tunnelling.

At the city could not grow over its mountain side around it, $25,000,000 will be spent to get through it. This will put several square miles of open country on the opposite side of the mountain within six minutes of the business center and relieve the pressure.

By thus bringing into use for homes the 150 acres of land which for centuries have been melon farms, a large part of the cost of the tunnel will be repaid to the Canadian Northern Railway as a result of enhanced values to the land.

Montreal now covers only nineteen square miles. In comparison, Detroit covers forty square miles; Pittsburgh, forty-one; Buffalo, forty-two; Boston, forty-three; and Cleveland, forty-five. Montreal's population is 600,000 greater than that of Detroit, and 190,000 more than that of Buffalo. Notwithstanding its congestion it has been growing recent years at the rate of 16,000 per every square mile.

Day and night shifts are working continuously until they meet in the heart of the mountain in about eighteen months. For years the tunnelling of Mount Royal has been considered by railroad officials, but as it solved the problem of an entrance to Montreal which avoids the long detour around the base of the mountain and would prove a rapid transit to a new rail road across the Canadian Northern mountains.

There were two cars of red safety harnessing, one which carried the hatchet full load paid over to the express of the farms which leads the Montreal motor car circus. More than 100,000 feet were paid out in that way, with one

JAPAN FEELS ONCE CROWN HIGH COST PRINCESS IS OF LIVING AUTHOR

Conditions Stand In Way of Reforming Government Finances.

Price of Food Goes up and Life's Miseries Are on Increase.

TOKIO Oct. 12.—The passing away of the Princess Mutsumi has only temporarily checked the discussion and consideration of what remains and must remain for a long time the most important affair in the state, the condition of the lower classes.

The semi-official Japan Times has published what must be considered a most remarkable expose of the condition of the people.

"The cost of living keeps going up," says the paper. "No one seems to be able to reach out his hands to bring the steadily ascending balloon to the ground, people helplessly watch the course and gasp. At the same time poverty walks about at large and the miseries of life increase. Above all the heads of families—the laboring class seem to have the worst allotment of miseries and tortures. Many of them are daily deserting their wives and families."

"The laboring men cannot support their families with the scanty wage they get. The little storekeepers find it impossible to balance their ledgers with the credit ahead of the debt, and are universally disengaged by dull business. At home their wives need money and their children are simply crying aloud from starvation."

OFEDOS MANON OPERA COMPANY, ORPHEUM

MACDONOUGH

Really and truly grand opera is what is promised by the Lambardi Grand Opera Company when it makes its appearance at the Macdonough theater commencing Sunday evening, October 20, for three nights. During their short stay here the Lambardi Grand Opera Company will present on Sunday evening Strauss' "Salome"; Monday evening, a double bill, "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci"; Tuesday evening, Sig. Zandonai's wonderful creation, "Conchita."

The Lambardi Grand Opera Company has been at the Cort theater in San Francisco for the past four weeks, and musical critics have exhausted their descriptive adjectives in praise of this wonderful company. Oakland is to receive exactly the same presentation of these operas as given in San Francisco.

The company's wonderful orchestra of forty-five instruments will be brought over intact and will be under the direction of Caetano Bavaoglio, one of the ablest of European conductors.

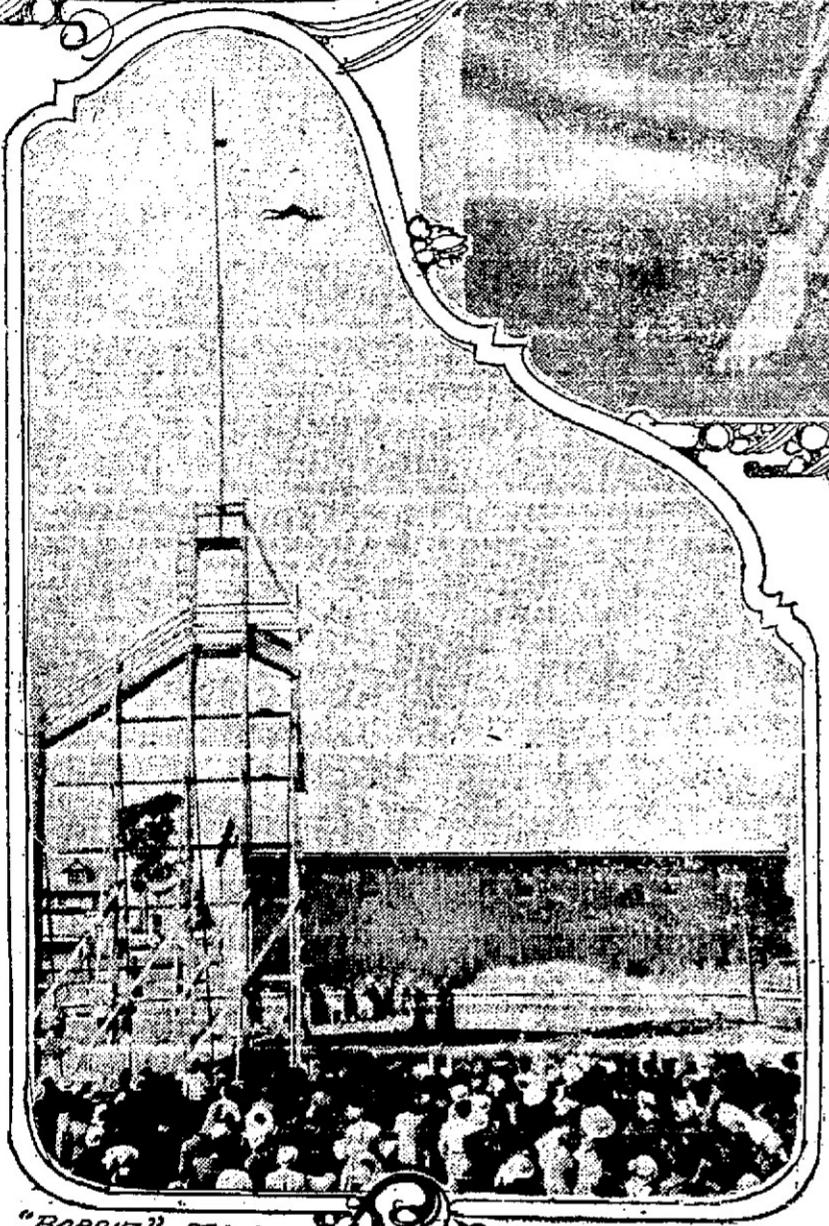

TARQUINIA IN SALOME.

For the opening night Tarquinia Tarquinia will be featured in her famous role of Salome. On Monday evening in the double bill will feature an all-star cast. Tuesday evening Tarquinia Tarquinia will again appear in her original role—Conchita. In "Conchita."

The company this year numbers 135 people and is perhaps the best grand opera company that has visited the Pacific coast since the visit of the Metropolitan company. Many artists of high reputation have been engaged especially for the minor roles and will insure a perfect cast for all operas presented during their short visit in Oakland. The heads of the organization are among the foremost singers of the present day and all have enviable records of European success. Among these the management takes pleasure in introducing to American audiences the celebrated dramatic soprano, Tarquinia Tarquinia, the Covent Garden star, where she created a sensation in "Salome," "Conchita" and "Carmen." Sale of seats will open Thursday, October 17, at the Macdonough box office. Mail orders will be received now. "IN OLD KENTUCKY."

That most successful and ever-enter-taining drama of the blue grass state—"In Old Kentucky"—is making another visit to the Pacific coast, and is announced for presentation here at the Macdonough theater October 18 and 19, with matinee Saturday.

With the abundance of dramatic material before the public nowadays, it is of "In Old Kentucky," and so well known often difficult to pick the wheat from the chaff, and it is a positive relief to be said in advance that what ever might be said about an attraction before its appearance will be confirmed by every one who patronizes it upon its local presentation. So widespread is the popularity of the merits of the piece, that every advance word spoken in its behalf is acknowledged to be the praise rightfully due this favorite drama of American life.

It has pleased more playgoers than any piece now current, and it is one of the most wholesome and interesting, as well as one of the most spirited and thrilling, of all the stage offerings of the day. It is worth any man or woman's to spend three delightful hours in witnessing a presentation. For the young person (as well as the older theatergoers) there is the always entertaining pickaninny band in their songs, dances and brass band selections.

ORPHEUM

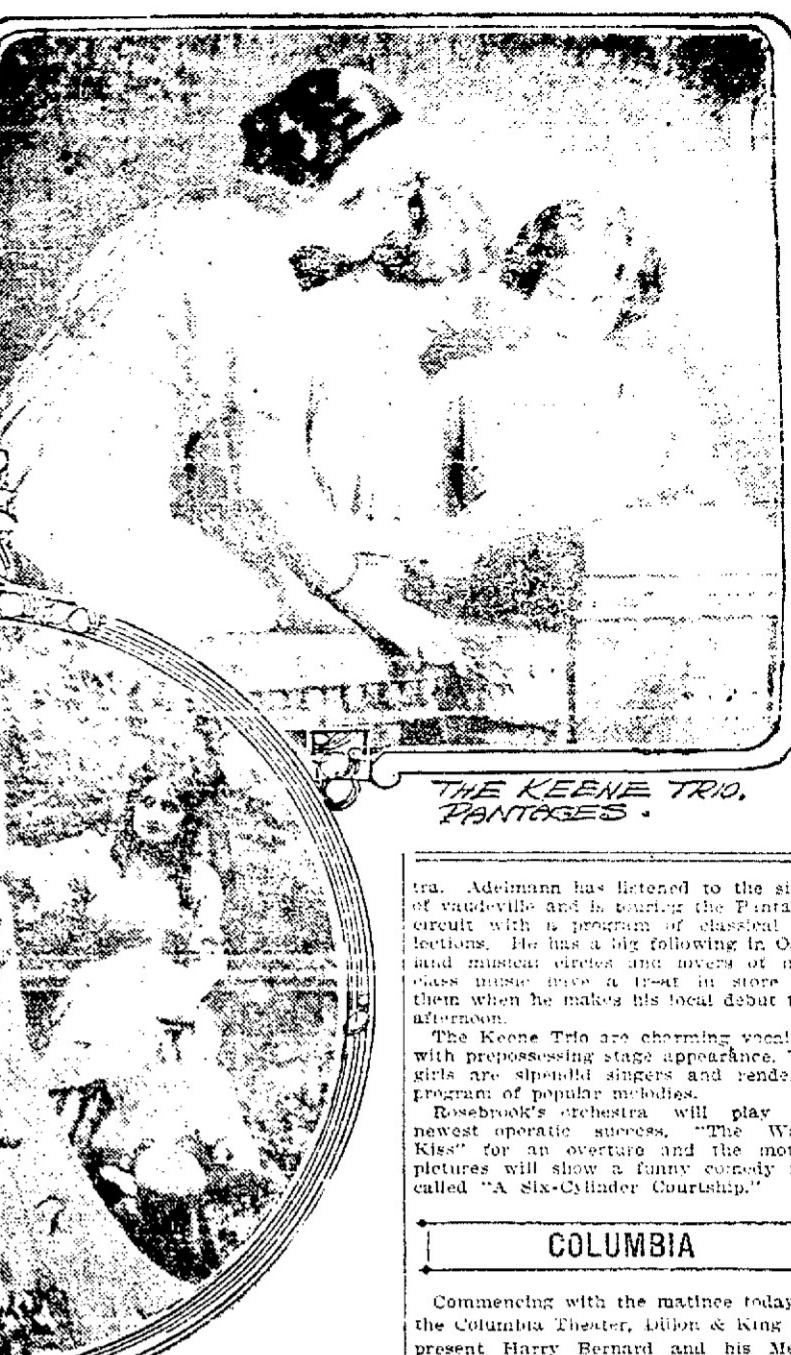

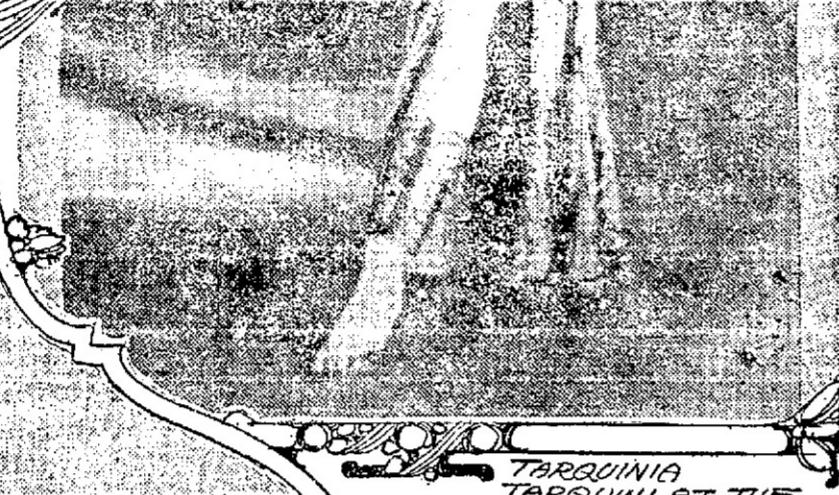

Variety is the key-note of the new bill of vaudeville that opens at the Orpheum this afternoon. It will be the sort of bill that makes vaudeville attractive in that there will be feature acts of many kinds. One of the world's greatest character actors is to appear in a wonderful protean sketch; a talented grand opera quartette with a famous soprano will render excerpts from the best operas, a rapid-fire comedy sketch will give cause for laughter, clever acrobats with sensational stunts, grotesques of the first European quality, and Claude and Fanny Usher in their favorite classic "Fagan's Decision." All will be part of this bill of the best in vaudeville.

To the vast host of Dickens' admirers, as well as theatergoers who may never have read a line of his works, it will be an interesting treat to witness "Bill Sykes," as played by Owen McGivney, the brilliant Irish actor. In this dramatization of an incident in "Oliver Twist" there are five characters, all of them played by Mr. McGivney. The scene is Sykes' garret. The protean work of Mr. McGivney is a rare study and in all is one of the most notable and artistic vaudeville features ever sent here from England.

Mons. Ofedos in organizing his Manon Opera Company secured a quartet of opera soloists of splendid voice. The prima donna, Mlle. Cecilia Zawaschi, for many years was coloratura soprano with Lambardi and Chicago Grand Opera companies. The other three members of the company are equally capable and their rendering of excerpts from various grand operas is of high musical value. Their favorite selections are the overture from "Sonnabend," "Eugene Onegin"—the Acta and Noste from "Tristan."

"The Suffragette," an advanced political satire written by Franklyn Ardell and played by him with the assistance of Marie Walters, is a verbal cartoon of a woman's campaign. "Votes for Women" has become a reality. Mr. Ardell and Miss Walters play the two roles for all there is in them, bringing the debate at times to an exciting comedy pitch.

For rapidity on the flying wings, trap-door and Spanish waifizes, new athletes compare with the Ryan Brothers. Both boys are aerial experts and their work is most difficult, but the quickness and Admetus has listened to the siren of vanderbilts and is touring the Panhandle circuit with a program of classic lectures. He has a big following in Oakland and makes circuits and money of course music more or less in store for them when he makes his local debut this afternoon.

The Keene Trio are charming vocalists with prepossessing stage appearance. The girls are splendid singers and render a program of popular melodies. The Rosebud orchestra will play the newest operatic success, "The Waltz Kiss" for an overture and the motion pictures will show a funny comedy reel called "A Six-Cylinder Courtship."

COLUMBIA

Commencing with the matinee today at the Columbia Theater, Dillon & King will present Harry Bernard and his Merry Makers in Bernard's latest laughing success entitled "At Saratoga." The first week's engagement of the new company has been a most successful one and from present prospects are destined for a long stay at the cozy Tenth street playhouse. The comedy itself needs no sage's philosophy nor does it set one meditating on any of life's perplexing problems, but it does make one laugh and that is the play's mission. The story the players tell in "At Saratoga" is most interesting, dealing with a human way in which one can prove the rights of man's fraternity. A host of amusing characters are involved in the many ludicrous situations that abound in the piece. Many of the popular songs now being sung and whistled throughout the land found their origin in this comedy skill. The doings of two quaint characters, one an Irishman who has amassed a fortune in the gold fields of Alaska, and the other a prosperous German, both go to Saratoga for his health, are amiable to the extreme. The complications in which they find themselves keep the audience in

The Everyday Hand

By Lillian Russell

THIS hands are a great index to character. When they are strong, broad, firm and cool, they indicate a strong, brave man and robust health. When they are soft, narrow, weak, and clammy, they indicate just the opposite.

When we see a girl, and we do see many, with soiled hands, loaded with all sorts of rings, we must know that the girl is not an object of her attractions. If she is, the girl is not to her dirty hands and negligence.

Well cared-for hands and fingers are a true sign of refinement. Any girl is wise enough to be clean if she so desires.

There are many women who have never known the art of the manicure, and who in spite of that have most beautiful hands. White, fair, and exquisitely exquisite hands that I was enabled to use, he said. It seems that she has no time to care for them. That you should always wash them in oatmeal or almond meal water, never using soap except when in the bath.

She always used an orangewood stick, not too sharp by pointed to push the cuticle back from the nails. She never cut the cuticle. She used only an emery file to shape the nails, never putting steel under or over them.

Bathed Nightly with Olive Oil.

Her nails were polished with only a grease polish. She bathed her hands nightly with warm oil, leaving enough of the oil on them overnight to keep them from becoming dry.

One of her beauties secrets, so she confided to me, was in drying her hands. She always used a thin towel of the finest quality, and dried them thoroughly,

"YOU CANNOT PAY TOO MUCH ATTENTION TO YOUR HANDS AND GLOVES. THEY ARE A TELLING INDEX OF THE CHARACTER OF THEIR POSSESSOR" SAYS

Lillian Russell

Do not fidget with your hands or any article that you may be holding. All this is wasted energy—energy employed to tell others you are not a well-poised woman. Such habits make you ridiculous. Learn to forget your poor hands.

Well cared-for hands and nails are a true sign of refinement. Any woman has time enough to be clean.

ALWAYS rubbing around each finger and pressing back the cuticle around the nails. She would then pat talcum powder on the backs of her hands, and with a fresh towel rub them again until all the powder disappeared. Thus her hands were always dry, and protected from dust and germs by the talcum powder.

She always wore gloves of some sort whenever she was out of doors. Even in her garden she would put on large cotton gloves and go about among her roses.

One never caught her with a spot of any sort on her perfectly groomed hands, and she never overloaded them with rings; her good taste and culture forbade more than one or two rings on each hand and they were always brilliantly cleaned, as well as her hands.

This woman was a joy as well as a lesson to women who go about with soiled fingers and unclean diamond rings.

No portion of the body responds to good treatment quicker than the fingernails. Note those cruel, stampy, disgraceful, shameless nails that are bitten to the quick. Surely their appearance is punishment enough.

Sarah Bernhardt's hands are as expressive as her features. Her skill in the use of them is an important part of her dramatic equipment. The same is true, however, of many other performers on the stage, in greater or less degree.

To understand why this is so it is only necessary to realize that the hand is the principal mechanical instrument of the brain. It is through this member chiefly that the mind externalizes and expresses itself in return whatever the hand does has its reflex in the brain, the two acting always in sympathy and accord. What more natural than that the hands should help to express our ideas and feelings?

There are certain peculiarities of hands which are so obvious as to attract anybody's attention, and which have an evident relation to temperament, to rank in life, and even to individual character. For example, though there are exceptions, the long, slender and stumpy fingers are not indicative of refinement or high lineage. But long and slender hands like those of Robert Louis Stevenson, ordinarily signify an artistic turn of mind.

Thumb of Most Importance.

Comparatively common among people low down in the human scale are excessively hairy hands, with short fingers and thick, curved and clawlike nails. These are plainly examples of reversion toward an animal and primitive type. It seems odd to notice, by the way, that the hands of very old persons, the members of which are much shrunk by senile wasting, often acquire a good deal of the shape and look of the apes' paws.

The thumb is a remarkable organ. It is one of the few parts of the body which may be cut off and still the hand will remain a fairly efficient instrument. The thumb, however, is indispensable. If it is lost the hand is practically useless. Next to it in importance is the middle finger, which can always be made to serve in the place of a forefinger and which is much larger and stronger than the latter. But it is a mistake to suppose that the middle finger is longer than the forefinger, though it looks as if it were, for the latter has always the wrist as one may see by a glance at a human skeleton.

Well if your hands are not naturally beautiful you can do a great deal towards making them pretty by proper care. This does not mean that you should never use them, for our hands were made to serve us; and they are one of the distinguishing marks between the higher and lower animals.

Let Us Care for Your Hands

Gloves sometimes cause the joints of the fingers to pull them out and crack them. They sometimes show you with great glee how "double jointed" they are, and pull and twist the delicate fingers into all sorts of contortions. The effects of such foolish practices are lasting. If you persist in them you will soon observe that your fingers are no longer slender and pretty, but miss upon and ugly.

When so, was very bad, you might soak the hands in water and out again, merely grinding the dirt into them. When you wipe them do carefully and thoroughly. It is from careless wiping that one often gets chapped hands.

The thumb is by all odds the most important part of the hand. Any one of the other fingers may be cut off and still the hand will remain fairly efficient. The thumb is indispensable, and if it is lost the hand is practically useless.

No portion of the body responds to good treatment quicker than the finger nails. Note these disgusting, cruel, shameless nails that are bitten to the quick. Surely their appearance is punishment enough.

Never expose your hands to extremes of temperature. Neither very cold nor very hot water is good for them. The water should be so that it is safe if you cannot go with water and the tap water is hard, put a few drops of ammonia, or a pinch of borax into it. This will soften it.

Do not use cheap soap on your hands any sooner than you would on your face. Lather your hands well with the soap and warm water, and if a brush is necessary to cleanse the nails it may be used. Rinse thoroughly. Let water and partly dry with a soft towel which easily absorbs the moisture. Then rub a few drops of glycerin and rose water thoroughly into your hands and complete the drying.

Be careful not to wear gloves that are too tight, for they ruin the beauty of the hands by hindering circulation. You cannot pay too much attention to your hands and to your gloves. They are a telling index of the character of their possessor.

Forget Your Hands and Feet.

Perhaps nothing adds to the appearance of the hands more than the condition of the nails. These should be most carefully attended to. They, too, like the hand in general are very indicative of abnormal states of the body.

If you are troubled with skin adhering to the nails, or if your nails are brittle make a practice of rubbing soap or a good cold cream or cream butter into the nail all about the roots. Do this every night, and in a few weeks you will surely see an improvement. In this way, squalls improperly called hangnails, may be prevented.

Keep your hands away from your face and hair once you are outside of your chamber. Avoid folding your hands across your chest, or tapping on the table, or fiddling with objects on the table.

Gestures are outward expressions of inward emotion. When you acquire poise you will have complete control of the hands and body, and you will move so gracefully and naturally that the method or art we call acquired ability will be entirely concealed.

All constrained, tense, awkward movements must be avoided. A position of repose would be restful to gaze upon. The action of giving a flower or a book should be done gracefully. And the action of taking a fan or a cup of tea should be graceful to behold.

Keep your hands away from your face and hair, when you are outside of your chamber. Tapping on your hair, tapping on a table or any object that is hard, denotes lack of poise and breeding. Avoid folding your hands across your chest, nervously tapping your foot, clamping and unclamping your purse, or purring your lips. All this is wasted energy. Energy employed to tell others you are not a well poised woman.

For the awkward, self-conscious feeling, as if you were all hands, I would say forget your poor hands. You can do so by concentration. Place your mitts on any other part of your body and the hands will relax and mind their own business.

We people on the stage when conscious of our hands keep them at our sides during a speech, and take hold of our skirts or coats until we forget our hands. For something more important. We are obliged to study gestures before a mirror, and we often see our hands grasping at poor, inanimate objects with impunity no respect for our appearance. But we get them under control finally.

There is nothing more attractive than beautiful tapered hands clean, white, and shapely.

Next to the face hands are the most expressive portion of the body. In fact I have seen people with little expression in their faces who can finish every sentence expressively by a slight gesture of the hands that speaks more effectively, I am sure.

Remember. The hands should always be as fresh and clean as the conscience within.

Fraternal Societies of Alameda County

At Argonaut tent No. 33, N. O. T. M., the true Macabees spirit was again thoroughly exemplified. The degree team initiated two candidates and received two new applications for membership which were duly voted upon. The Joint committees of Argonaut Hive and Argo-naut tent have perfected all arrangements for the "Tented Night," next Friday evening, October 19. A fine program of unusual merit has been arranged, and those who attend will have a rare treat. Admission is free and invitations can be secured from any of its members. Refreshments will be served, and dancing will be the great attraction, while the entertainment to follow will be a rare treat.

Golden Hive Tent No. 17 held an interesting meeting last Monday evening. Six candidates were elected to membership, and the first degree was conferred in regular form. The committee appointed to arrange an entertainment for the ladies of Oakland Hive No. 14 reported progress, and chairman C. G. Myers requested the committee to meet again on Wednesday evening, October 9.

The degree team drilled for a short time after which refreshments were served. Next Monday night the team will drill again in preparation for the entertainment to be given Monday evening, October 23.

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS.

Dorothy's Tent No. 1, Daughters of Veterans, will give a campfire at Pythian castle, Twelfth and Alice Streets, Oakland, Tuesday night, October 16, 1912. There will be a brief band concert and dancing.

THE FRATERNAL BROTHERHOOD.

Oakland Lodge No. 123, F. H., met last Friday at Pythian castle with a full attendance. There is a number of vacancies reported on the sick list. Warrant was issued, drawn by the treasurer, for a sum of money to be sent a sister in distress. A visitor was present from No. 104, T. F. E. Reno, Nev. A letter of condolence is to be sent to deceased brother Klecker's wife and family. It being open meeting night, the lodge room was thronged by the friends of the members. An excellent program was run.

Mrs. Saunders also rendered a solo. Miss Fristrom and Miss Sadie Bishop played a piano duet. Miss Bishop sang two excellent songs. After the program dancing and refreshments were enjoyed by all present.

Miss Lodge No. 36, Fraternal Brotherhood, had its regular weekly session in Loring hall Thursday evening. Past President B. P. Miller acted as the brother president. Thursday evening, October 24, Maple Leaf escort team will give a social dance in Loring hall and on Thursday evening, October 31, there will be a short session of Maple Leaf, after which all will go to Melrose to pay a fraternal visit to Melrose Lodge. Great preparations are being made for a grand masquerade ball to be given the last week in November. Brother Hubbell of Oakland Lodge No. 123, was present and upon being called upon spoke briefly. Lodge closed and the floor was cleared and all enjoyed a social dance.

ANCIENT ORDER OF FORESTERS.

The increased attendance at the meetings of Court Piedmont No. 7808, Ancient Order of Foresters, is a source of gratification to the officers. Applications continue to come in and a general revival of the old-time interest is being manifested. At the last meeting P. C. R. Brother J. T. Kerna was present and gave the members a heart to heart talk on "Foresterism." Many of the old-time members are waking up and taking notice of what is doing at the court. Much credit is due to Mrs. G. L. Smith, chairman of the entertainment committee, for the success of the social portion of the meetings. The court intends giving an informal dance the latter part of the month and a general good time is assured. Brother W. E. Bradley has been elected financial secretary in place of Brother Charles Clark, who was compelled to resign on account of private business.

ELOPING SISTERS ARE MARRIED IN RAIN

Actor Asks $10,000, Alleging Alienation of His Wife's Affections.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The legal entanglements of Louis L. Winch, an actor and manager of stock companies, and his former wife, who is now Mrs. Dorothy Regal Collins, widow of John J. Collins, president of the Fred C. Whitney Theatrical Producing Company, led to still another action when the former husband sued the present husband for $10,000 damages, asserting that Collins alienated the affections of his wife and then married her himself.

Mrs. Winch, after obtaining a divorce in Chicago, married Collins on September 19 last in Stamford, Conn. Mrs. Collins is a niece of the late Governor McMinn of Tennessee. Winch is also suing to have annulled the decree of divorce obtained by his wife. He blames all his difficulties on Collins. He said that he and Mrs. Dorothy Regal were married in November, 1910, in Atlantic City.

Winch said his wife stated she was a resident of Chicago to give her a standing in court and that he was not there to defend the divorce suit. Also two witnesses whom he had never seen testified against him.

Collins is well known in the theatrical profession as a musical comedy producer. He is 28 years old and Mrs. Collins is 35.

Gossip About Makers of Books and Their Work

One of the most important literary clubs on the coast is the Casa Guidi Club, which takes its name from Brownings "Casa Guidi Windows." Its membership is made up of bright and clever women from around the bay and its president is Mrs. Stanton, one of the ablest leaders in literature and the drama on the coast.

The Casa Guidi Club is studying Carpenter this autumn, and so much is being said and written of him now that a review of his work, written by one of the Casa Guidi members, is most helpful:

EDWARD CARPENTER.

(By Mrs. Hawick Ellis.)

Edward Carpenter's development was a gradual one, from the broad church point of view to the more radical conclusions of a spiritual democrat. He was once a curate under Frederick Maurice. He slowly but surely began to realize that he could not go on preaching under limited conditions, so he left the church. He was a Cambridge lecturer and during his extension work in different towns he began to look into the lives of the poor, the criminal, the chancy and the despised.

This brought him nearer to Socialism and so he abandoned talking and began to think. He was not actually poor and so had leisure to come to conclusions, but so soon left the "undesirable mansion" with their conventions and came to his own.

His discovery of Walt Whitman was the means to this end, and it is extremely interesting to the student of both men to note their apparent likeness and their mutual admiration.

Carpenter found himself through Walt Whitman, in the temperament of the two men and, in consequence, their messages are both individual and valuable in different ways. Carpenter began to realize that no cleric or middle-class ideal, no conventional philanthropist, no mere self-seeker or maxim-maker, and no insincere person can radically alter institutions till they have altered themselves.

It is always a painful process to re-adjust life on a new basis. Carpenter has never regretted doing this, though in the casual observer he seemed to have nothing left. He abandoned office, position, social fashions and entanglements, and lived a simple life in a cottage. He had found peace and had delivered himself from all shams of every sort and kind.

In these days of storm and stress, not only in politics, but in morals and personal faith, it is refreshing to study the works of a man who is at peace with himself. Neither James Hilton nor Nietzsche had reached personal serenity. Twenty years ago it was quite the usual thing to hear Edward Carpenter speak of as a madman, an impossible eccentric and a teacher of dangerous doctrines.

The forerunner then was disowned by the crowd. It is unusual enough now to hear this same man spoken of as a divine messenger, a prophet and seer. This recognition came first from abroad. In Germany his books have long been known and have passed through many editions in translations. The transition from condemnation to recognition in the case of this particular teacher has been curiously swift. Why is this?

Simply because the man and his messages are really expressions of what is actually round about us.

Edward Carpenter as a personality is not so rare a manifestation as he was twenty years ago, for the simple reason that sincerity, singleness and simplicity are contagious. He is now only one of many teachers of democratic mysticism though on some matters he still remains curiously alone. Perhaps his own words in the beginning of "Towards Democracy" express this:

"I am the poet of hitherto unuttered joy. A little bird told me the secret in the night, and henceforth I go about seeking to whom to whisper it."

"I see the heavens laughing, I discern the half-hidden faces of the gods wherever I go, and the transparent opaque veil in which they hide themselves, yet I dare not say what I see, lest I should be locked up!"

"Children go with me, and rude people are my companions. I trust them and they me. Day and night we are together and we are together."

"To them that I would say is near; yet it is nothing that can be named, or in the giving or taking of anything; but rather in all things."

Carpenter has found out what he believes in and he is living it, and is perfectly and serenely happy, as a man or woman only can be happy when the inner and outer life harmonize. He has deliberately cast aside pretenses of living in order to live in reality. This, perhaps, is what makes his great practical value for us, as out of this has grown the inner light in the man which is so strangely beautiful. He is a man of wisdom more than mere knowledge—the wisdom which is childlike and saint-like.

It is the seer in Carpenter which makes him take the part of his fur-coated and four-footed brothers against the vivisectionist and the slaughter-house torturers. For him nothing is low or mean, although wealthy Vermonters and well-to-do residents of the Dartmoor play no unimportant roles. The story is replete with that intense excitement which accompanies the exchange of captivity for liberty under most dangerous and torturing conditions, and the dash, daring and chivalry of the Americans, together with the intrepidity, incorruptible stability and fearless affection of English men and maidens precipitates a seething mass.

The strong affection which causes a man to lay down his life for a friend—and even for an enemy at love's best-friend here a powerful illustration and the very outlaws have in them such elements of noble manhood as to command admiration if not unqualified approval.

It is a powerful tale of the humbler folk—those who follow the plow and others who go down to the sea in ships—although wealthy Vermonters and well-to-do residents of the Dartmoor play no unimportant roles. The book is a vivid portrayal of the perils and privations of Americans captured by the English on the high seas during the Revolutionary War, and their frequent wild attempts to gain freedom from the rigor of British guardhouses. It is equally a demonstration that all men have not their price, for no amount of coin of the realm is large enough to tempt even a hangman from his duty; so the dare-devil prisoners turn their thoughts to love, which can always be trusted to find out a way of release from the very noose of the scaffold and the coffin of the dead.

French Beauties

Sketched at Deauville by Helleu

Paul Helleu, etcher of beautiful women—the most famous in his field in the world—has just visited Deauville, fashionable French resort, for the purpose of sketching the beauties to be seen there on the sands. This is the first presentation of this new work in America.

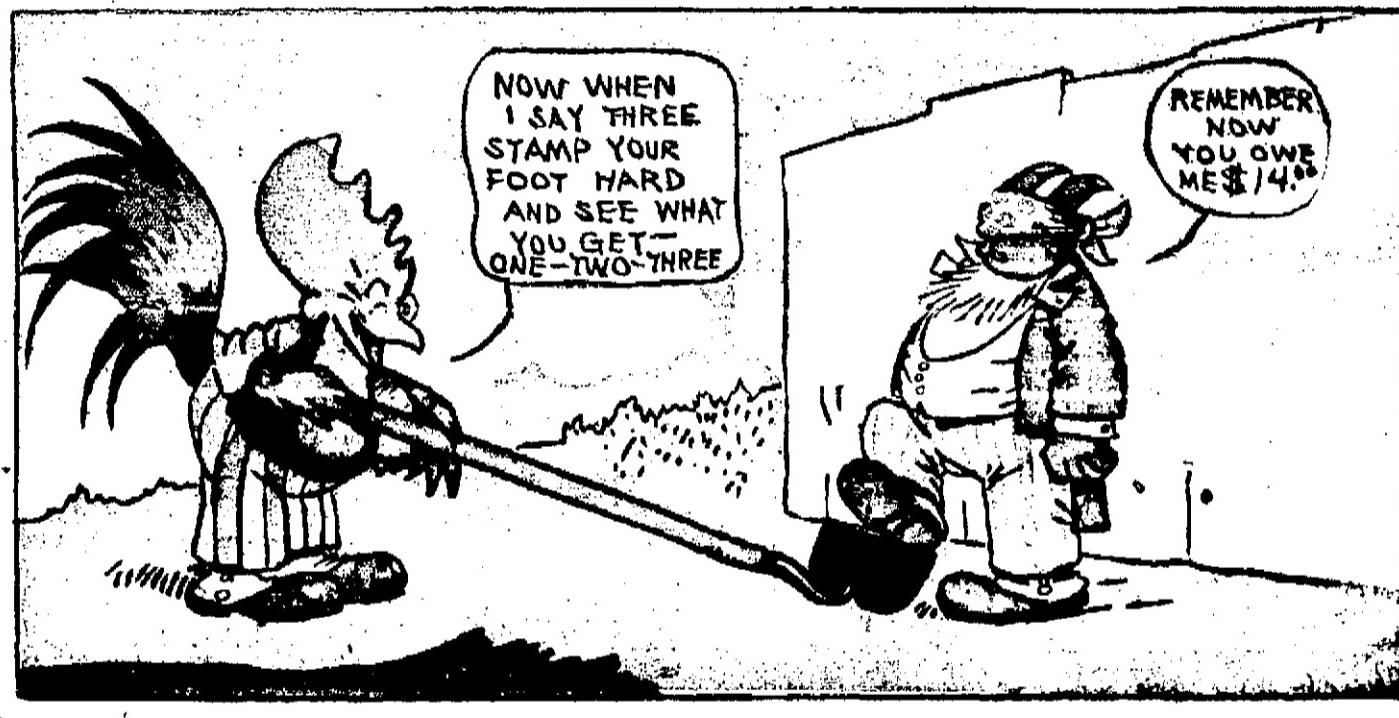

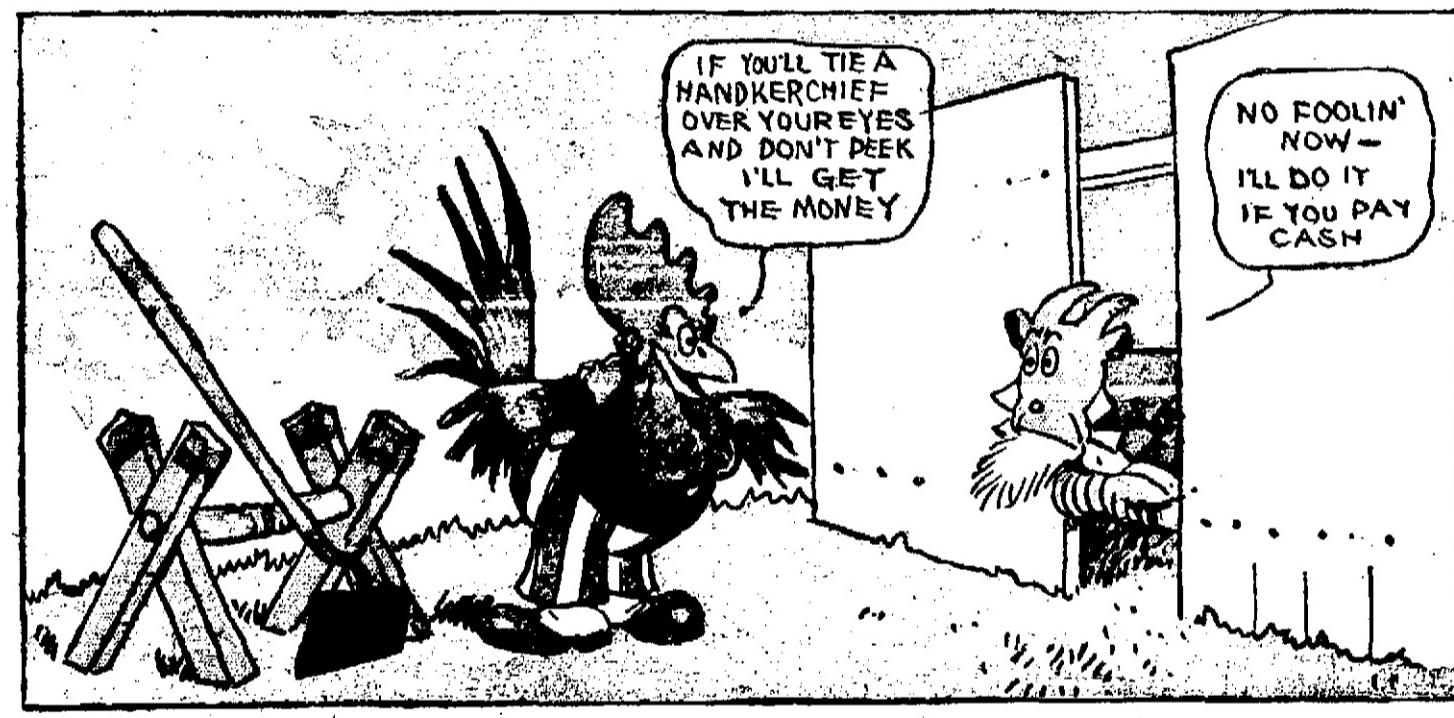

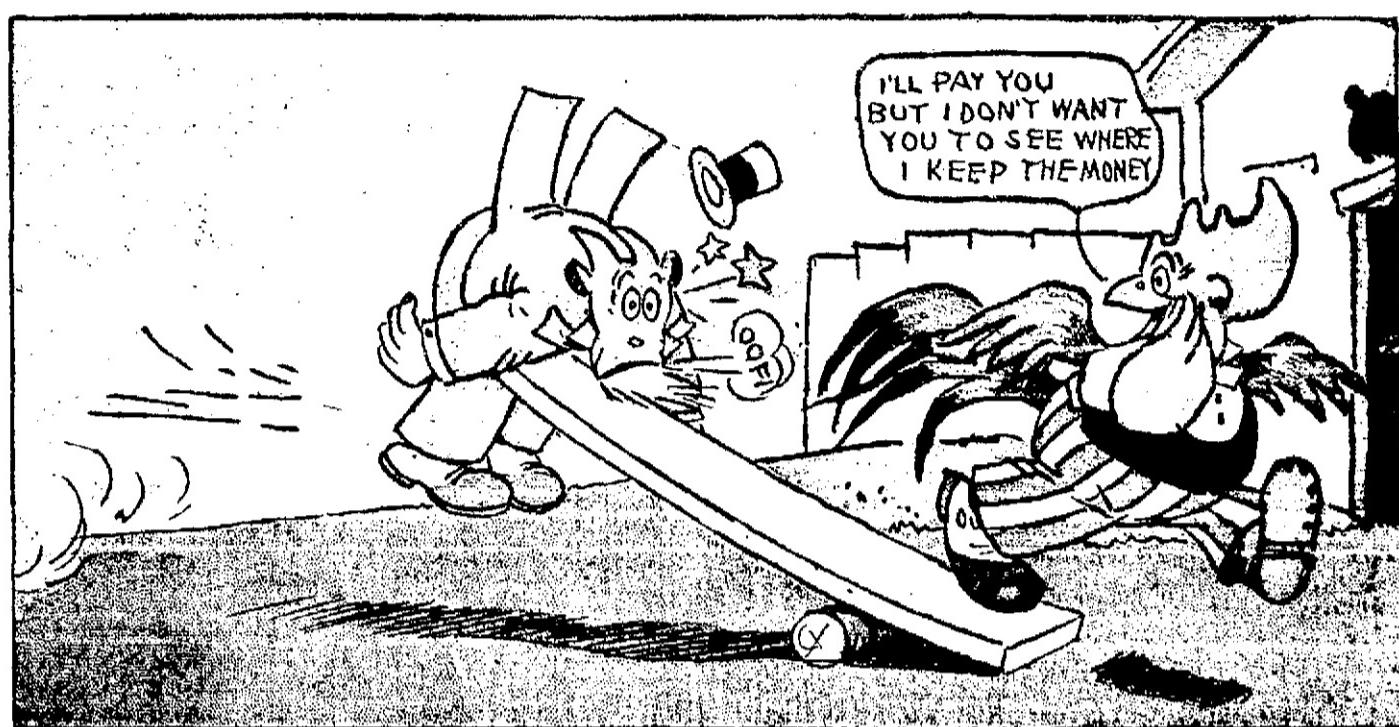

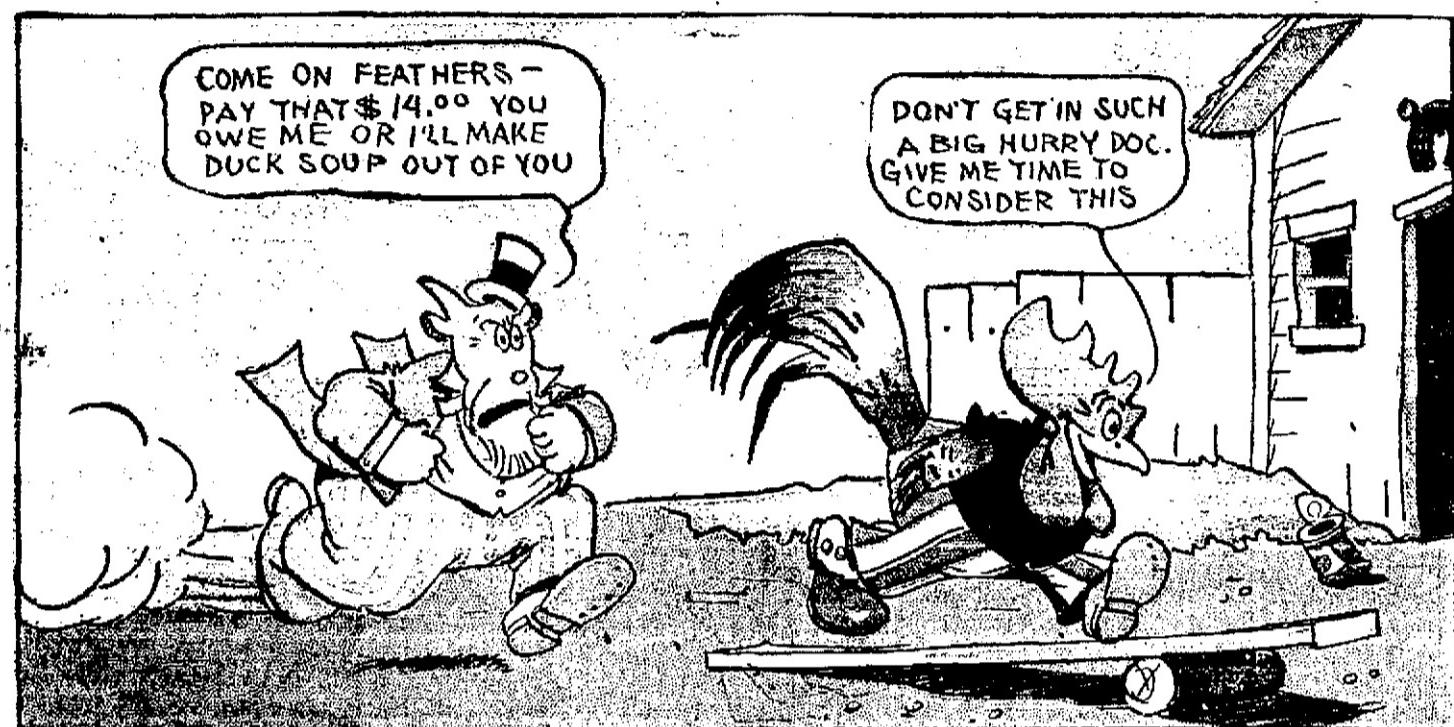

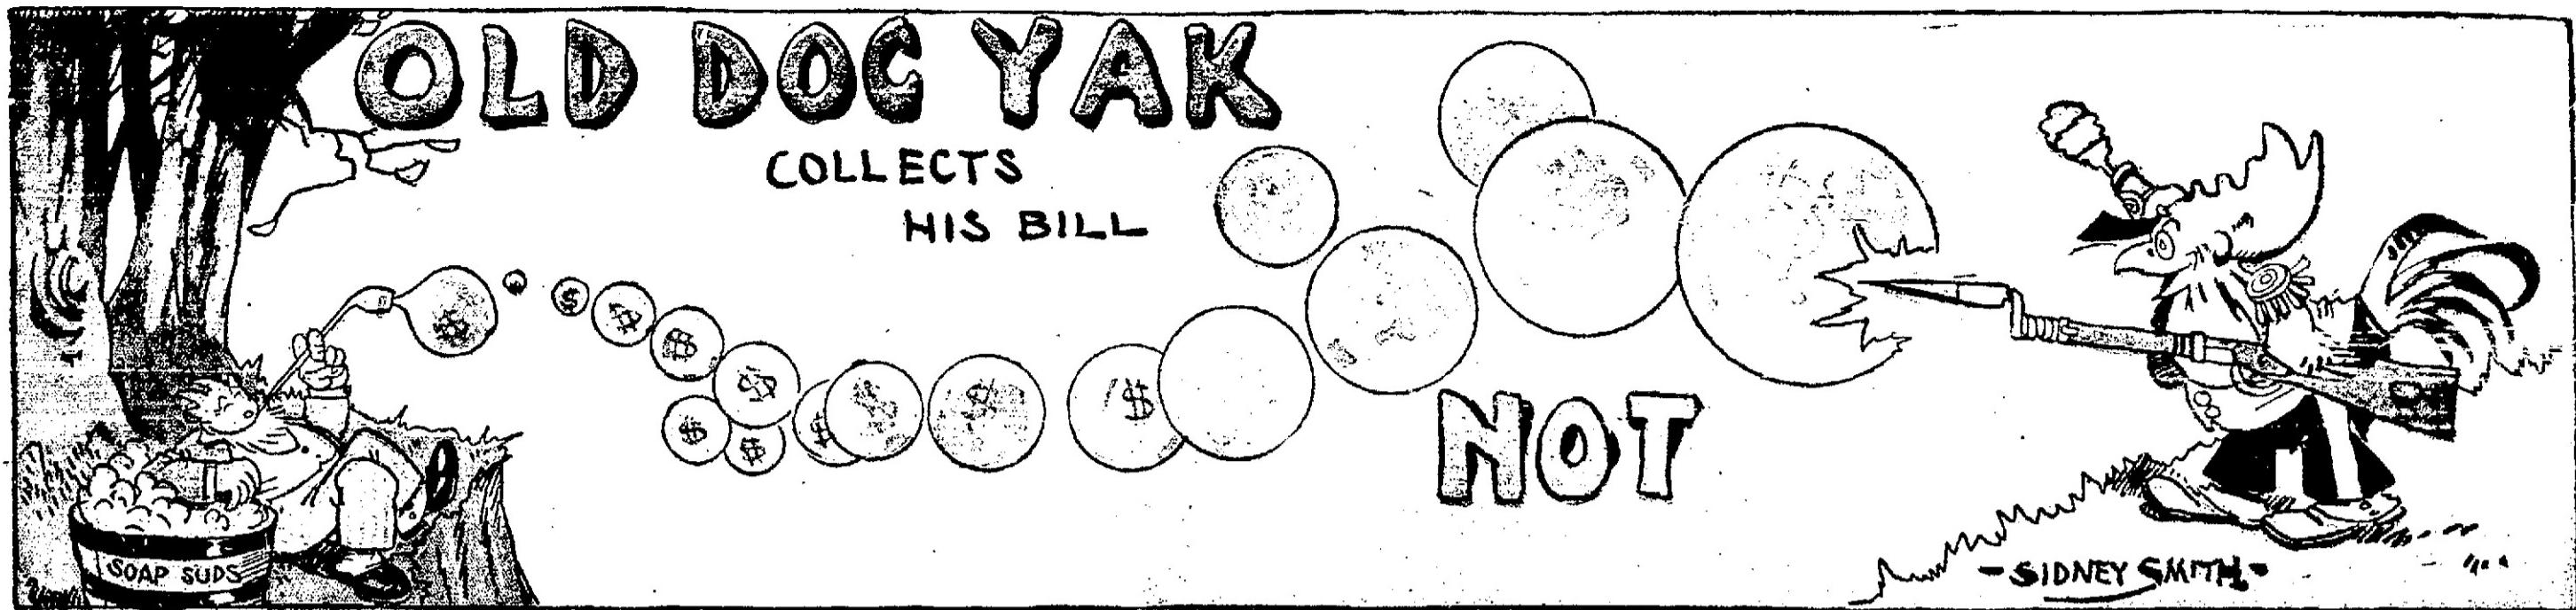

Helleu is idolized by the French nation. Portraits of Ethel Barrymore, Consuelo Vanderbilt (Duchess of Marlborough), and Madame Letellier are counted among his greatest masterpieces.

His studio is constantly besieged by American, English, and French women of beauty and fashion.

SHERLOCK HOLMES JR, THE AMATEUR DETECTIVE

DANNY DREAMER SR. AND SAMBO REMO RASTUS BROWN

OLD OPIE DILDOCK'S STORIES.

(Copyright 1912 by The Tribune Company, Chicago, Ill.)

One afternoon I stood at the railroad on wait for the train to come and take me on the first vacation I took with my wife.

I was sitting in the smoking compartment when I heard the engine whistle shriek. There was a sudden jar, the car split asunder, and, clutching my belongings, I was hurtled through space.

As I journeyed through the air I sat upon my trunk and prepared to travel as comfortably as possible. Several miles ahead I saw a big lake, and for this late I steered the trunk.

As I neared the lake I got up and opened the trunk. From it I took my fishing rod, and, descending slowly, assembled it and prepared to start on my vacation earlier than I had expected.

Hardly had I cast when I made a big strike. A whale of a muskie grabbed the hook, and I fought him standing on the trunk. Then I noticed in the distance a great flock of ducks.

Playing the fish with one hand, I took out my gun, closed the trunk and shot at the foremost duck. The fish was going in a circle so fast that the shot was sitting out, killing the entire flock.

Quickly I stood aside and threw open my trunk, throwing the fish into the box, and I held the trunk open as the birds fell into it. Taking out my golf clubs I closed the trunk.

I happened to remember I had an engagement to qualify at golf at a nearby course. I couldn't get there, so I tried off 18 balls from the trunk, one into each hole, but was disqualified for not driving from a tee.
